'Khalistani' slur: IPS officer hits back at Bengal BJP leaders, says keep faith out

Police blame Leader of Opp; he says prove BJP said it or face legal action

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
KOLKATA, FEBRUARY 20

UPSET OVER a "Khalistani" slur hurled at him, a Sikh IPS officer hit back at a group of protesting West Bengal BJP leaders and workers, who were being led by Leader of Opposition Suwendu Adhikari, asking them not to typecast people and leave his faith alone.

The incident, which snowballed into a new confrontation between the BJP and the ruling Trinamool Congress in West Bengal, took place Monday when a police contingent stopped BJP leaders and workers from visiting Sandeshkhali, at the centre of a political storm, at Dhamakhali in North 24 Parganas district.

As the row escalated Tuesday, with Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee targeting the BJP, the West Bengal Police released a statement on X, saying it was "outraged to share this video, HARYANA AND Delhi braced for the march Wednesday by Punjab farmers seeking a minimum support price (MSP) guarantee. As farmer tractor trolley numbers swelled at the Punjab-Haryana border points despite the High Court pointing out that tractor trolleys are not allowed on highways, the Haryana police urged their Punjab counterparts to seize heavy earthmoving machinery at the inter-state border and stop women, children and journalists at least a kilometre from the border.

Indian team flies to London to seal FTA before poll code kicks in

RAVI DUTTA MISHRA
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

AN INDIAN delegation headed by Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal left for London Tuesday in a final effort to seal the India-UK free trade agreement (FTA) before the dates for the 2024 general elections are announced.

This comes four days after the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) reviewed the progress of the India-UK FTA talks being negotiated for the last two years.

The visit is crucial as dates for the general elections are expected to be announced in less than a month, triggering the Model Code of Conduct (MCC) which will restrict the Union government's ability to announce the deal.

Efforts to close the deal this month also assumes significance because the UK is also headed to of Rs 12.5 lakh for Jyoti and other players from the state who won laurels at the recently concluded Hockey 5s World Cup, Asian Games and Asian Champions Trophy.

"Today morning, some people from the tehsildar office came, took my and my father's Aadhaar cards and told us that the government will support us," Jyoti told The Indian Express. "They asked us if we would be able to build a home if they provided us with a plot. Since my father is a mason, he knows the craft and we have agreed to it. Hopefully, with my hockey career, I'll be able to contribute to the construction."

While the district officials did not respond to calls, the state government, while announcing cash rewards for Odisha players, said in a statement: "The awards recognise their stellar performances while representing India internationally and highlighting Odisha's rich legacy in the sport."

The young forward and her family were staring at an uncertain future after they were served a "notice" by the local authorities to vacate the house to make way for the widening of the road.

The house is located right outside the main gate of the Panposh Sports Hostel, where Jyoti's father Bhim Singh worked first as a watchman and later in the canteen.

It was at the same hostel — which has produced many international players — where Jyoti first picked up a hockey stick, following the footsteps of her elder brother Suraj.

Mayor poll results: SC rules in favour of Cong-AAP

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. A three-judge bench presided by Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud perused the ballot papers and said that the eight ballots on which Masih had made a marking, and were later counted as invalid, were duly cast in favour of Kuldeep Kumar. Kumar had approached the Supreme Court against the outcome of the election.

Terminating the verdict as a win for the INDIA bloc, Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal said, "We thank the Supreme Court for the verdict at a time in this country which is seeing dictatorship... This is the first win for the INDIA Alliance. Thanks to the verdict, we have snatched victory from their (the BJP's) jaws. This is an answer for all those people who feel that the BJP cannot be defeated. It can be defeated using strategy, with planning and with hard work," Kejriwal said.

He also questioned BJP's confidence in the upcoming Lok Sabha polls. "Just think, if they can do all this to steal just 8 votes, which are 25% of the total votes, in such a small election, what can they do when 90 crore votes are cast? Where are they getting the confidence that they will get 370 seats? This proves there's something behind the scenes... it has been proven that these people don't win elections, they steal them," said Kejriwal, who is also the AAP convenor.

Setting aside the January 30 election results as "contrary to law", the bench — comprising Justice J B Pardiwala and Justice Manoj Misra — however refused to quash the entire electoral process.

"We are of the considered view that it would be inappropriate to set aside the election process in its entirety when the only infirmity which has been found is at the stage when the counting of votes was recorded by the presiding officer. Allowing the entire election process to be set aside would further compound the destruction of fundamental democratic principles which has taken place as a consequence of the conduct of the presiding officer."

Accordingly, it said, "We are of the considered view that in such a case, this court is duty bound, particularly in the context of its jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution to do complete justice to ensure that the process of electoral democracy is not allowed to be thwarted by such subterfuges. Allowing such a state of affairs to take place would be destructive of the most valued principles on which the entire edifice of democracy in our country depends. We are therefore of the view that the court must step in in such exceptional situations to ensure that the basic mandate of electoral democracy, albeit at the local participatory level is preserved."

Votes for Cong-AAP candidate valid: SC

"Each of those 8 invalid votes were in fact validly cast in favour of the petitioner. Adding the 8 invalid votes to the 12 votes which the presiding officer recorded to have been polled by the petitioner would make his tally as 20 votes. The respondent on the other hand has polled 16 votes. We accordingly order and direct that the result of the election as declared by the presiding officer shall stand quashed and set aside. The petitioner is declared to be the validly elected candidate for election as Mayor of the Chandigarh Municipal Corporation," it said.

On Monday, Masih had told the bench he had put the marks on the ballot papers as they were already defaced and he wanted to avoid them getting mixed up with the other ballots. Tuesday, he tried to justify his stand, but the court was not convinced.

Senior Advocate A M Singhvi who appeared for Kumar, urged the court to act and said "he is defending it completely till the end and should be open to the consequences whatever the court may want to visit him with". He said Masih "has the gall to do it on video, to keep quiet, to come to court and think he can get away with it. And till yesterday, he was misleading all of us".

'Presiding Officer guilty, show cause'

The Supreme Court said it was evident that Masih "is guilty of a serious misdemeanour in doing what he did in his role and capacity as presiding officer". "The presiding officer has evidently put his own mark on the bottom half of the ballot for the purpose of creating a ground for treating the ballot to have been invalidly cast. In doing so, the presiding officer has clearly acted beyond the terms of his remit under the statutory regulations...," it said.

Masih, who was the presiding officer, had told the court on Monday he had put the mark on the ballot papers as they were already defaced, so as to avoid them being mixed up with the other ballots. Referring to this, the order said, "In this court yesterday, the presiding officer made a solemn statement that he had done so because he had found that each of the ballots was defaced. As already recorded, it is evident that none of the ballots have been defaced."

"The conduct of the presiding officer has to be deprecated at two levels. Firstly, by his conduct, he has unlawfully altered the course of the Mayoral election. Secondly, making a solemn statement before this court on February 19, 2024, the presiding officer has expressed a patent falsehood for which he must be held accountable," it said.

Directing that a show cause notice be issued to Masih, it said, "We are of the considered view that a fit and proper case has been made out for invoking the jurisdiction of this court under section 340 of the code of criminal procedure, 1973, in respect of the conduct of the Shri Anil Masih, presiding officer... The Registrar Judicial is accordingly directed to issue a notice to Anil Masih, councillor with the Chandigarh Municipal Corporation, who was the presiding officer at the election which took place on 30 January 2024 to show cause as to why steps should not be initiated against him under section 340 of CrP, 1973. The notice shall be made returnable on... after three weeks." He would have an opportunity to respond to the notice.

• J&K gets its first electric train

Railways network, and the Delhi-Amritsar-Katra expressway, said J&K was moving forward with the pledge of becoming "viksit" (developed), leaving behind its days of despair and separatism. These projects, he said, will boost education, skills, jobs, health, industry and connectivity.

Without naming any party, he took a swipe at the National Conference and PDP, saying Jammu and Kashmir had been "a victim of dynastic politics for many generations" where "the welfare of the people was completely neglected and the youth incurred huge losses".

"Such dynastic governments barely prioritise making policies for the youth because those thinking about the welfare of their own families will never spare a thought for the common citizen," he said, adding that dynastic politics in the Union Territory is now coming to an end.

Muzaffar Hussain Baig, former Deputy Chief Minister of the erstwhile J&K State and one of the founding members of the PDP, was among those present at the rally. Baig said he had come to listen to the Prime Minister.

Referring to the government's focus on the poor, farmers, youth and Nari Shakti (women empowerment) for a "viksit" J&K, Modi said it is fast becoming a major hub of education and skill development. He recalled having given a guarantee in 2013 at the same venue about creating an IIT and IIM in Jammu and Kashmir. "That guarantee is being fulfilled today," he said, adding that it is why people say "Modi's guarantee means fulfilment of that guarantee".

While the IIT Jammu was established on August 6, 2016, the Prime Minister inaugurated the IIM Jammu Tuesday.

Listing the educational infrastructure projects, he said advancement of education and skill development sectors on such a scale was a distant reality 10 years ago. "But this is a new India," he said, highlighting the government expenditure on modern education for the present and future generations.

He said nobody will be left behind and those who felt neglected for decades can now feel the presence of an effective government. He said a new wave has emerged in the country that shuns the "politics of dynasty and appeasement".

"The youth of Jammu and Kashmir are blowing the big drum (trumpet) of development and moving forward to create their future," Modi said, mentioning "a positive change in atmosphere" in the Union Territory.

The "mantra of Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas and Sabka Prayas is the foundation of the development of Jammu and Kashmir," he said.

• AAP-Cong gets post but BJP has numbers to rock

BJP now has 17 councillors, the same as the AAP-Congress combine (whose numbers are down from 20 to 17). The BJP can additionally count on its Chandigarh MP Kirron Kher, the ex-officio member of the corporation, and the sole Akali Dal councillor.

One of the immediate challenges before new Mayor Kuldeep Kumar Tita will be surviving a non-confidence motion in the House, with numbers skewed against him.

There is also a question mark on the legality of the election of BJP councillors Kuljeet Sandhu and Rajinder Sharma as Senior Deputy Mayor and Deputy Mayor, respectively, given that they were picked unopposed after the AAP and Congress boycotted the polls over the disputed Mayor election. But even if elections are held again for the two posts — which seems likely — the BJP is well-placed to win them.

As per legal experts, to win a no-confidence motion, Kuldeep Kumar must get a majority of the votes of the councillors in the house, plus two-third of those present and voting.

BJP leader said the party was confident of voting out Kuldeep Kumar as the Congress-AAP alliance remains fragile and is set to come apart under seat-sharing pressures of the Lok Sabha elections. "The BJP already has simple majority in the House. If the alliance of the AAP and Congress falls apart, Congress will definitely try to bring down the Mayor, and we will have the two-third numbers, even if all the 10 AAP councillors vote for Kuldeep. So there are several permutations and combinations," the leader said.

The BJP is also counting on Kuldeep Kumar being hamstrung due to a code of conduct for the Lok Sabha polls kicking in soon, leaving little in his powers beyond holding house meetings. "So he will be an ineffective Mayor, and by the time of the polls, the Congress-AAP alliance will also fall apart," the BJP leader said.

As per a BJP councillor, even if this fissure does not happen now, the Congress and AAP bonhomie is bound to collapse after the Lok Sabha elections. "In case the Congress performs badly, they will never let this AAP Mayor continue," the councillor said.

Even without a no-confidence motion being brought in, Kuldeep Kumar will have a hard time controlling a House in which the BJP has majority.

• 'Khalistani' slur: IPS officer hits back at Bengal BJP leaders

"Khalistani" and that they respected the Sikh community. Adhikari did not respond to phone calls for comment on the police tweet about the Leader of Opposition using the "Khalistani" word against the officer.

Earlier, Adhikari, responding to South Bengal ADG Supratim Sarkar's remarks to the press, said the officer will have to prove which BJP leader used the word. "I will ask Supratim Sarkar to prove it within 24 hours. Otherwise, I will take legal action against him," he said.

A video of the incident showed SSP (IB) Jaspreet Singh, a 2016-batch IPS officer, standing in front of BJP leaders, including MLA Agnimitra Paul, and responding angrily after being called a "Khalistani".

Singh said, "I will take action on this, just because I am wearing a turban, you assumed I am a Khalistani? You cannot say anything about my religion. Has anybody said anything about your religion? Then why did you comment on my religion?"

"Nobody is making any comments on religion, only you are making. If any police personnel is wearing a turban, are they assumed to be Khalistani?... I'm not discussing your faith; don't bring up mine either. How dare you label me a Khalistani! Is this your level?" Singh said.

Tagging a video of the incident, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, in a post on X, said, "Today, the BJP's divisive politics has shamelessly overstepped constitutional boundaries. As per @BJP4India every person wearing a turban is a Khalistani. I vehemently condemn this audacious attempt to undermine the reputation of our Sikh brothers & sisters, revered for their sacrifices and unwavering determination to our nation. We stand firm in protecting Bengal's social harmony and will take stern lawful measures to prevent any attempts to disrupt it."

In the evening, the police in its statement defended Singh. "His 'fault': he is both a proud Sikh, and a capable police officer who was trying to enforce the law."

"This comment is as much malicious and racial as it is communally inciting. It is a criminal act. We unequivocally condemn the unprovoked, unacceptable attack on an individual's religious identity and beliefs aimed to incite people to take to violence and break the law. Stern legal action is being initiated," police said.

Earlier, ADG Sarkar told a press conference: "We are doing our duty... Somebody is Muslim, somebody is Sikh or from any other religion. If anybody comments on their religion then they are trying to do divisive politics. This is not only condemnable but also a punishable crime. It is unacceptable. We will take appropriate legal action against this."

Adhikari, on his part, maintained: "We never do such things. We do nationalist politics, oppose Pakistanis and Khalistanis but we never said such things to the officer."

"The officer did this to catch the Chief Minister's attention. He did not tell the truth. Mamata Banerjee used to do this type of cheap politics. We respect Guru Nanak and the Sikh community. They had sacrificed during our freedom movement. But our fight against separatist groups will continue," he told reporters.

Meanwhile, the incident also drew criticism outside the state. Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge posted: "Mr Modi (Prime Minister Narendra Modi), your only objective is to spread disharmony, hatred and violence between religions, sects and communities. Your rule is the 'amrit kaal' of divisive politics!"

Targeting the BJP and its "cultivation of hatred", senior Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said: "The country is with IPS Jaspreet Singh."

The Shiromani Gurdwara Prabandhak Committee (SGPC) also condemned the incident.

In a post on X, SGPC president Harjinder Singh Dhami said, "The intentional character assassination of a Sikh IPS officer S Jaspreet Singh by the BJP leaders in West Bengal is highly condemnable. Leaders who have such thinking in the country should never forget that Sikhs have made the most sacrifices for the freedom and protection of the country. Sikhs do not need to get a certificate from anyone, rather they know how to perform services for the nation in accordance with their traditions and customs."

• FTA: Indian team flies to London

elections by the end of the year. Hectic parleys have been going on — a UK delegation visited India in January.

"The signing of the India-UK FTA is still possible and the Commerce Secretary and other negotiators are headed for the UK. If substantial conclusion of the FTA is done, it can be announced and there are unlikely to be any amendments as the NDA government is expected to come back to power again," a government official said.

Earlier, The Indian Express, quoting a UK official, had reported that the deal can be signed in the next three weeks and that India needs to open up more as it is a high tariff country and the UK already is very open.

The India-UK FTA will udd be the first full fledged FTA with a developed country which could accrue significant benefits in the service sector and several labour intensive sectors such as textile and leather industry.

It is crucial for New Delhi to sign the free trade agreement as it has passed on regional trade agreements such as the China led-Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) and has also not decided to join the US led-Indo-Pacific Economic Framework for Prosperity (IPEF's) trade pillar.

• Punjab farmers march today

Sarvan Singh Pandher, general secretary of Kisan Mazdoor Sangharsh Committee and one of the farm leaders who participated in talks with Union Ministers, demanded that the Prime Minister call a special session of Parliament to bring an MSP guarantee legislation.

"The Centre can also announce the waiver of debts. They can take the figure from the banks. A mechanism on how it should be rolled out can be worked out later," Pandher said.

Meanwhile, Union Agriculture Minister Arjun Munda appealed to the farmers to maintain peace.

"I would appeal to the farmers and the farmer organisations which are connected with this (protest) to maintain peace. We have to take it forward from discussion to solutions... We must keep discussing this issue... We all want peace... and we should together find a solution for this issue. We tried to hold the discussion... and several proposals were also discussed. We have come to know that they (farmers) are not satisfied with the proposals. But this discussion should continue and we must find a solution to it peacefully," Munda was quoted saying by news agency ANI.

Gurdeep Singh Chahal, a spokesperson for Bhartiya Kisan Union (Eka-Sidhupur), said farmers would move with their tractors and trolleys.

He said the gathering of farmers at the Shambhu and Khanauri border points had grown. Pandher and BKU (Sidhupur) leader Jagjit Singh Dallewal, Chahal said, would lead the protest at Shambhu Wednesday.

A Punjab Raj Bhavan statement said Governor Banwarilal Purohit had postponed his visit to the border areas. He was to go to the border districts of Pathankot, Gurdaspur, Amritsar, Tarn Taran, Ferozepur and Fazilka.

In the Punjab and Haryana High Court, while hearing PILs on the 'Dilli Chalo' protest march, Acting Chief Justice G S Sandhawalia said, "How can you go from Amritsar to Delhi in a tractor trolley?.. If you want to go to Delhi, you may go by bus."

The division bench of Acting Chief Justice Sandhawalia and Justice Justice Banerji was hearing two PILs — one seeking directions to stay all obstructive actions by the governments of Haryana, Punjab and the Union government against the farmers' protest; and the second seeking action against the agitating farmers.

In its affidavit, the State of Haryana said it will take all possible steps against violators of law and ensure that protesters do not block important roads and places in the state.

The Punjab government, in its affidavit, stated that all Commissioners of Police and Senior Superintendents of Police have been directed to ensure that no JCB machine or any other heavy machinery is allowed to move towards districts Patiala and Sangrur.

The Punjab affidavit said that as of February 19, the gathering at Shambhu border, District Patiala, was around 13000/13500 people during day time and 11000/11500 during night time.

The gathering at Khanauri border, District Sangrur, was around 4500/4600 during day time and 3700/3900 during night time, it stated.

• As children fight cancer, 21 parents share food recipes

To ease challenges faced by caregivers whose children are suffering from cancer, 21 parents like Durgarani were brought together by an NGO from across India to share as many tasty but simple and nutritious vegetarian recipes, including raw mango parathas and black gram laddus, that their immunocompromised children enjoy eating.

All recipes in the 38-page book, titled Happy Healthy Meals and curated by NGO St Jude India ChildCare Centres, are packed with vitamins and antioxidants to help boost a child's immunity for better illness resistance and quicker recovery from infections. The book can be downloaded free of cost from the NGO's website.

Each recipe in the book starts with photos of a child and a parent, along with the story of how or why the dish was created.

"This book showcases the remarkable creativity of parents navigating the stress of caring for a child with cancer. These recipes are both delicious and nutritious," says Dr Arpita Bhattacharyya, a senior consultant in the Department of Paediatric Haematology and Oncology at Kolkata-based Tata Medical Centre.

Like Durgarani, Solapur resident Supriya Shinde, 34, transformed yet another commonly disliked food — dalia (porridge) — into a sweet and delicious halwa for her daughter Dnyaneshwari Shinde, 8, who is undergoing treatment for cancer at Mumbaibased Tata Memorial Hospital.

"The dalia, jaggery and dry fruits make this recipe extremely nutritious for my daughter," says Supriya.

On why it's important for cancer patients to eat home-made food during treatment, Dr Shripad Banavali, director, Academics, Tata Memorial Centre, said, "Avoiding outside food — with its unknown ingredients and potential contaminants — helps minimise the risk of infections and supports a child's delicate immune system. Additionally, limiting sugar intake is vital since cancer cells often rely on glucose for their growth."

Children undergoing chemotherapy and radiotherapy as part of their cancer treatment often suffer from loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, mouth ulcers, pain, diarrhoea, constipation and abdominal pain. These conditions, individually or combined, often result in poor oral intake and weight loss. Since weakened children struggle with chemotherapy, increasing the likelihood of severe side effects, nutrition plays a critical role in their healing journey.

Anil Nair, CEO of St Jude India ChildCare Centres, says, "A nutritious diet is crucial for healing, recovery and bolstering the immune system. Recognising the challenge of feeding weakened children, parents customise meals to entice them. Beyond nourishment, food helps uplift the mood and expedites recovery."

IIT-D postpones exams after MTech student suicide

New Delhi: The Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Delhi has postponed the mid-semester examinations, which was scheduled from February 21 to 24, in view of the recent suicide case of MTech student Varad Sanjay Nerkar. The exams will now be conducted from February 26 to 29.

An email from the college authority to students on Tuesday read: "Dear fellow IITians, Varad Sanjay Nerkar's suicide has left all of us in deep anguish. This trauma has particularly affected students preparing for their mid-semester exams... So, after discussions with all the student representatives and with their consensus today, the mid-semester exams scheduled from Wednesday (February 21) to Saturday have been rescheduled to Monday (February 26) to Thursday. No classes or labs should be planned for the rest of this week."

Row over morning assembly at St Stephen's

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

HOURS AFTER an uproar over St Stephen's College allegedly suspending about 100 first-year students "for not attending the morning assembly", and debarring them from sitting in the upcoming examinations, the college principal Tuesday apologised to the students for a "miscommunication" on the issue.

The controversy was sparked by an email sent by the principal's office to the students regarding the alleged action, following which the students and teachers wrote to Principal John Varghese, urging him to immediately withdraw the order.

The email sent from the principal's office to the students and parents concerned on February 17, read: "This is to bring to your kind notice that there was a prior request for you to meet with the Principal regarding low attendance in the morning assembly. Unfortunately, we noted that you were unable to report to the Principal's office as requested. Regrettably, due to non-compliance with this request, I inform you that students will not be permitted to sit for the upcoming exams as a consequence of suspension."

Clarifying this on Tuesday evening, Varghese sent another email to the students and parents, which read: "It was a miscommunication... incorrectly worded. My sincere apologies for that. Even I was not cc'ed on that email, a practice which is usually followed when I instruct my office to communicate, in written mode, on my behalf. Let me, therefore, set the matter right through this email..."

After controversy over students being allegedly suspended, the college principal issued a clarification on Tuesday.

set of practices and traditions, and St Stephen's College is no different. The morning assembly is an old tradition of the college. It is NOT a religious event, even though small portions from several religious and philosophical texts are read out... It is more of an occasion when the college's junior members are encouraged to listen to men and women of character, and experienced people who share their wisdom and knowledge..."

"In the light of the misworded email that was sent from my office, without my clearance, please now note that there will be no suspension with regard to attendance for the morning assembly. Parents are important stakeholders in the broad-based, wholesome education that the college provides, and it is in this spirit that parents were addressed in the incorrectly worded email, with inadvertent and serious errors. My apologies for that," he added.

The principal did not reply to request for comment. Earlier in the day, a first-year

BA Programme student, requesting anonymity, told The Indian Express: "We were told earlier that we would face repercussions for not attending the morning assembly, but it was not mentioned anywhere that we would be suspended or debarred for appearing for the exams." Another student said: "Since most of us come from different states, our parents could not come all the way to Delhi. Hence, after I received the email from the principal's office, I requested an appointment to meet him, but was denied."

In an open letter written before the principal's clarification, Professor Sanjeev Grewal, head of Economics department, said: "I am shocked to know that a large number of students have been suspended from the college, and also threatened to be debarred from sitting in the upcoming exams."

HC to suspended BJP MLAs: Will you apologise to L-G?

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

SEEKING TO resolve the standoff over the suspension of seven BJP MLAs, the Delhi High Court on Tuesday asked them whether they were prepared to apologise to the lieutenant governor for repeatedly interrupting his address to the legislative assembly that prompted action against them.

Justice Subramonium Prasad asked the senior counsel for the suspended legislators to take instructions on this after the lawyer representing the assembly said a similar approach was adopted in the Supreme Court to end the suspension of Aam Aadmi Party Rajya Sabha MP Raghav Chadha.

Appearing for the assembly, senior advocate Sudhir Nandrajog said the matter is not political and involves the dignity of the office of the LG.

"I spoke to the speaker. He also suggested the route followed by the Supreme Court in Raghav Chadha's case. If members were to come and meet the speaker and apologise to the LG, the whole thing could be put through," he said.

Senior advocate Jayant Mehta, appearing for the lawmakers, said they had no problem apologising to the LG. The court asked the petitioners' counsel to come back in the post-lunch session with instructions. Subsequently, the court was informed there was some "development" in the matter, following which the petitions were directed to be called for consideration on February 21.

The seven BJP MLAs—Mohan Singh Bisht, Ajay Mahawar, O P Sharma, Abhay Verma, Anil Bajpai, Jitender Mahajan and Vijender Gupta—approached the court on Monday challenging

The BJP MLAs had interrupted Saxena multiple times during his address on February 15 as he highlighted the achievements of the AAP government their indefinite suspension from the Assembly for interrupting Lieutenant Governor V K Saxena's address. They said their suspension till the conclusion of proceedings before the privileges committee was in violation of the applicable rules and the MLAs were consequently unable to attend the ongoing Budget session.

The BJP MLAs had interrupted Saxena multiple times during his address on February 15 as he highlighted the achievements of the AAP government, while they attacked the Arvind Kejriwal dispensation on a range of issues.

"The petitions by the MLAs said their suspension violates Article 19(1)(a) (right to freedom of speech and expression) of the Constitution of India and the rights and privileges of the MLAs as well as the principle of "proportionality" and "rationality".

"The Order of the Hon'ble Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of NCT of Delhi is unconstitutional, unjust, unfair and, in any event, selective and grossly disproportionate. It violates the fundamental and constitutional rights of the Petitioners," the petition filed through advocate Satya Ranjan Swain on behalf of Mahawar, Gupta and Bajpai said.

The plea highlighted that the budget is the last full budget before the assembly elections in 2025 and therefore the presence of the opposition members was of utmost importance.

House adjourned after furore over water scheme

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE AAM Aadmi Party (AAP), which has been accusing the BJP as well as bureaucrats for stopping the 'One-time settlement' scheme to resolve water bill issues, protested inside the well of Delhi Assembly, demanding the bureaucrats be suspended and the scheme be cleared, here on Tuesday.

Raising the matter in the House, CM Arvind Kejriwal alleged the BJP is "behind all this and is trying to stop the scheme by putting pressure on bureaucrats."

All the AAP MLAs entered the well of the House holding placards and raised slogans such as "Shame on BJP, take action against officers", "BJP walon Kejriwal ko pani bill maaf karne do" (BJP folks, let Arvind Kejriwal waive off the water bills)" and "L-G sir, suspend the bureaucrats who are refusing to implement the scheme".

Following the protest, Speaker Ram Niwas Goel adjourned the proceedings for half an hour but the AAP MLAs continued to raise slogans even after they were resumed. The speaker then adjourned the house for the day.

Meanwhile, Leader of opposition Ramvir Singh Bidhuri alleged that AAP MLAs "misbehaved" with him in the house.

Bidhuri said he complained to the speaker and requested him to take action against AAP MLAs. "If BJP MLA can be suspended for expressing their views, then action should also be taken against AAP MLAs," he said.

NDMC: Hike in parking fees revoked

New Delhi: The New Delhi Municipal Council (NDMC), which had increased parking fee by two-fold in a bid to discourage private transport amid the increase in pollution levels in the national capital, has now withdrawn the order on the issue. According to an order released on November 13, 2023, the new parking fee — due to implementation of GRAP measures — was scheduled to begin from January 31 this year. On February 1, the NDMC, however, postponed the deadline to April 30. With the GRAP guidelines in place, the parking charges were increased to Rs 40 for four-wheelers and Rs 20 for two-wheelers. However, now the usual fees of Rs 20 for four-wheelers and Rs 10 for two-wheelers will be charged by all NDMC parking areas again. ENS

DISCUSSIONS PROGRESSING WELL, SAYS KEJRIWAL

AAP, Cong alliance talks at final stage, announcement soon: CM

MALLICA JOSHI & JATIN ANAND
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

ALLIANCE TALKS between the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) and the Congress are at the "final stage", and an announcement on the seat-sharing matrix will be made "very soon", Delhi Chief Minister and AAP convener Arvind Kejriwal said Tuesday. The parties have held two formal meetings to discuss an alliance in Delhi, the last of which was held in January. Since then, sources said, several discussions between the top leadership of both parties have taken place. On Tuesday, when Kejriwal was asked about the alliance talks during a press conference, he said, "Several rounds of discussion have taken place, things have reached the final stage in this respect, our alliance with them will be announced very soon..."

welcome in the INDIA Alliance..." Delhi has seven Lok Sabha seats. In 2014 and 2019, all these seats were won by Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) candidates. According to Congress sources, both parties were expected to finally zero in on a 4-3 seat-sharing formula in the Capital based on the winnability of the candidate on each of the seven Lok Sabha seats in Delhi. "While the Congress has already constituted a panel of potential candidates on each seat, the AAP has also made a list of potential candidates. Both these panels will be assessed on the basis of winnability and the candidates decided will be given tickets," a senior Congress leader said, requesting anonymity. One of the names that was suggested from the New Delhi seat, which is held by BJP's Meenakshi Lekhi at present, was that of Saurabh Bharadwaj, who is an MLA from Greater Kailash and the health minister in the AAP government in Delhi. "His name was suggested and he was asked for his opinion, but he has refused to contest," AAP sources said. Alliance talks were derailed for a couple of days after AAP national general secretary (organisation) Sandeep Pathak announced at a press conference last week that AAP was "willing to give Congress one seat" if the alliance materialises.

He had also said that based on "merit", the grand old party did not deserve "even a single seat" in the Capital. Sources said AAP leaders told the Congress that the inordinate delay in finalising the contours of the alliance was behind the "outburst".

Asked about the thaw in the association between both parties following a lunch at Congress MP Abhishek Manu Singhvi's residence on Sunday, another senior Congress leader said, "There was no issue at all; it is a fact that talks (regarding the alliance) are at an advanced stage. The issue is not regarding seat-sharing in Delhi or even the number of seats — we may get four or they may (get them) depending on the winnability of the candidate proposed — but the seats the AAP is claiming in Gujarat." AAP has announced candidates from two seats in Gujarat. Both parties have decided to contest separately in Punjab.

Police brace for farmers' march to Delhi: Provisions to block roads

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

MULTIPLE LAYERS of barricading at borders with Haryana, provisions to block the road at Ghazipur border with Uttar Pradesh if the need arises — these are some of the measures the Delhi Police is keeping in place ahead of the scheduled march of farmers towards Delhi from Punjab on Wednesday morning following their rejection of the Centre's five-year minimum support price (MSP) proposal. On Tuesday, the Gurgaon Police arrested under section Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPc) Section(s) 107/151, and later released 38 farmers for violating orders under CrPc Section 144 in the state, after Manesar farmers called for a march towards Delhi. Farmers, who gathered to take out a march to Delhi at around 10 am on Tuesday, were stopped by around 300 police officers. The farmers had called for the protest after extending solidarity with Punjab farmers demanding an ordinance guaranteeing MSP. On the march scheduled for Wednesday, Mayank Gupta, deputy commissioner of police (East), said that four law and order companies are ready with riot gear to restrict any movement and control disturbance. "But we are not expecting any disruption here. We are coordinating with the DCPs of South and Southwest Delhi along with those in the districts of Gurgaon," Gupta said, adding that there were no curbs on traffic or any route diversion. At the Panipat-Sonapat border, at least 400 officers along with two companies of Sashastra Seema Bal (SSB) and one of Border Security Force (BSF) have been deployed, along with the installation of water cannons, barricades, and concrete barriers to prevent the protesters from marching towards the national capital.

The Gurgaon Police, meanwhile, has deployed officers at all its key borders including the Rajokri border on the Delhi-Jaipur Highway, Rewari, Pataudi-Jhajjar, Farrukhnagar-Jhajjar and Nuh borders. "Adequate force is on standby round the clock, and Gurgaon has not been affected by the protests so far, but we have enough officers deployed to prevent any untoward incident along the borders," said an officer.

In Gautam Buddha Nagar, officials said that farmers would be given space from the Yamuna Expressway's zero point to Surajpur collectorate, where farmers will line up on one side with their tractors. According to officials, no major traffic congestion at the Noida-Delhi border is expected on Wednesday.

In Ghaziabad, officials said, the existing traffic advisory will apply and traffic will be affected on the Delhi-Meerut Expressway if the Delhi Police installs additional barricades at the Ghazipur border. "Under such circumstances, traffic will be diverted towards Anand Vihar. We are prepared to deal with any situation. However, as per information, farmers will only go to the DM office and not march towards Delhi," said another official. Over 2,000 Delhi Police personnel will be deployed at the Ghazipur border.

Penalty, undertaking, warning: Transport dept norms to get back overage vehicles

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

WONDERING HOW to get back your vehicle towed away by the transport department during its drive against End-of-Life vehicles last year? Six months after the Delhi High Court's intervention in the matter, the transport department has come out with a policy detailing the procedure owners have to follow to get their vehicles back.

According to the policy guidelines issued Tuesday, the owners will have to submit an undertaking that the vehicle will not be plied or parked in any public place, and will be removed from the jurisdiction of Delhi.

A penalty of Rs 10,000 along with towing and parking charges will be levied on four-wheelers before the release. For two wheelers, the penalty is Rs 5,000.

The policy also has provisions for people wishing to park their end-of-life vehicles. If the vehicle has been impounded for the first time, owners will have to submit documents, including registration certificate, to secure their release. The owners will have to submit an undertaking that the vehicle will not be plied or parked in any public place, according to the policy.

In case of parking inside a residential complex, the owners will have to submit a proof of private parking spaces issued by the RWA or any authority concerned.

"Delhi government considers that guidelines for impounding/seizure/scrapping/release (with certain conditions and penalty) of End-of-Life vehicles are necessary. These guidelines are also required for effective implementation of various directions of National Green Tribunal and for improvement of air quality in Delhi..." said the department while issuing the guidelines.

For End-of-Life vehicles registered outside Delhi-NCR, the owner will have to furnish a reason on why the vehicle was plying in Delhi, and submit an undertaking that it will not enter the Capital again.

"The enforcement drive, which was slowed down after the court's involvement, will now gather pace. The department will continue phasing out such vehicles from public places but now with proper guidelines, giving the owners a chance to get their vehicles back," said an official.

The transport department will also create an online platform to facilitate a hassle-free process between the enforcement agency, the scrapping facility, and vehicle owners.

2-month prep work, 40m tunnel: How accused in Indian Oil case carried out theft for weeks

ARNABJIT SUR
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

PREP WORK that lasted over two months, a 40-metre-long tunnel, and a daily theft of nearly 7,000 to 8,000 litres of oil for weeks: Police chargesheet into the oil theft from Indian Oil Corporation Limited (IOCL) pipelines, passing through the Pochanpur village and supplying oil to the Bijwasan Oil Depot, has revealed how meticulously the network of seven accused carried out the crime before the cover was blown off their deeds.

In October last year, Delhi Police received a complaint from the officials of the oil giant regarding possible theft from their pipelines.

Their investigation led police to a plot in Dwarka's Pochanpur village where they found an underground tunnel hidden under a pile of fodder.

According to the chargesheet, the accused used a valve machine connected to two plastic pipes to extract oil by drilling a hole inside the pipeline.

The accused would then load the oil on tractors, inside containers used to store wheat flour and gravel, to avoid suspicion. The chargesheet says, "...A machine was installed to extract oil by making a hole in the government oil pipeline in which two plastic pipes were connected which were kept at the plot of Rakesh (the landlord) at a distance of around 40 meters by making a tunnel..."

It is learnt that on June 15, Rakesh had given the land to a person who identified himself as Naresh at a rent of Rs 30,000 per month. Rakesh did not take the trouble to get the tenant verified.

How the oil theft was detected

It is learnt that complaints of pressure drop began being received in the pipeline. On October 4, Indian Oil officials detected a pilferage at the IOCL Delhi-Panipat section.

The planning for the theft began in December 2022, when the main accused, Sudesh Gupta, who told Rakesh that his name was Naresh, zeroed in on a plot near the pipeline and opened a mechanic shop nearby. "Sudesh met Rakesh under the name of Naresh Verma and asked about taking the plot on rent to do scrap and bottle work... two men, namely Muradi and Bobby, were called as they were experts in digging tunnels and making holes in pipelines and installing valves," stated the chargesheet.

"The work was completed in 2.5 months after which they drilled the pipeline and installed the valve and started extracting oil," stated the chargesheet.

One of the accused, Imran alias Mistri, the chargesheet stated, had welded an iron plate under the pipeline with a small welding machine while co-accused Ravi and Kale welded the pipeline with a special type of drill machine.

"...drilling is done in such a way that as soon as that special drill machine is taken out after drilling the pipeline, there is a special type of rubber inside the spindle of that drill machine which is used to protect the pipeline and does not allow the oil to come out," added the chargesheet.

They used to take the oil and diesel to a warehouse in Palwal, from where three of the accused, Sudesh, Rashid and Ram, used to further sell it to customers.

The chargesheet was filed in the Dwarka court earlier this month.

LABRADOR LED POLICE TO SPOT WHERE ACCUSED WORKED

How squad dog led cops to murder accused through traces of dust

ARNABJIT SUR
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

IN AUGUST 2017, a six-year-old boy went missing from his way home in Northeast Delhi. His father, a tea-shop owner, lodged a missing persons report with the Delhi Police, following which several teams were formed to trace the whereabouts of the accused.

The next afternoon, the minor's body was found with strangulation marks inside a nursery situated a distance away. Medical examination revealed the boy was sodomised before being killed.

For almost a month, police had no clue about the possible perpetrator of the crime: Door-to-door searches were fruitless, and with the area from where the boy went missing being a black spot, there was no scope to scan CCTV footage either. But after around three weeks, on September 1, one of the Labrador dogs of the Delhi Police's K9 squad, 10-year-old Vinesh, was deployed along with the crime team of the Northeast district. The canine was taken to the spot of the crime, and later, coaxed to sniff the clothes the deceased boy was wearing at the time of the incident.

Said an officer, "After sniffing the dust off the victim's clothes, Vinesh immediately took the police team to an under-construction site in the area where he started sniffing the security guard's enclosure..."

The police team then questioned the site's supervisor who told them that the guard, Ram Niwas, 40, had been missing since August 11 — the day of the incident. Police personnel were sent to his hometown in Bareilly, Uttar Pradesh, to carry out raids at his possible hideouts.

However, they later received a tip-off that he was in Delhi itself. Niwas was arrested near the cremation ground in Mandoli here.

During interrogation, Niwas told the police that he was friends with a relative of the victim and used to consume liquor with him at the construction site after their respective shifts. On August 11, when the construction work was shut throughout the day, Niwas again consumed liquor with his friend who left the spot around 8 pm.

"Around 8.15pm, the accused, who was in an inebriated state, saw the boy heading towards his house and called him over. He sodomised the minor boy and when the latter threatened to complain to his father, he strangled him and dumped him at a nursery around two kilometers away from the spot before fleeing," AK Singla, then DCP (Northeast), had said.

Police had stated that Niwas had also been involved in a similar case in the past when in 2009, he had allegedly kidnapped and killed another six-year-old boy over a financial dispute with the latter's family. He was subsequently arrested in the matter and was granted bail, added police.

In the present case, the matter is being heard and is in the stage of final arguments at the Karkardooma court. Niwas is in judicial custody.

No completion certificate if project violates anti-dust norms

New Delhi: The Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) in NCR has directed government agencies to not issue completion and occupancy certificates for projects that violate dust pollution control norms.

The body, which is responsible for managing air pollution in the region, said Tuesday that inspections of construction and demolition sites indicate a "significant need to improve levels of compliance and implementation of dust mitigation directions and guidelines". It added that in some cases, project proponents have completely disregarded the "closure" directions and continued operations at their sites without the CAQM's resumption orders and without taking due corrective or preventive measures to abate dust pollution. ENS

Third time lucky? Why the new law is unlike two previous bids to provide reservation to Marathas

OMKAR GOKHALE
MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

NOW THAT the Maharashtra Assembly has passed a Bill to set aside 10% reservation for Marathas under socially and educationally backward categories in jobs and education, the question on everyone's minds is, will it clear judicial scrutiny.

The Bill was formulated based on a report of Justice (retired) Sunil B Shukre-led Maharashtra State Backward Class Commission. However, at least two previous legislation extending quota to Marathas failed the legal challenge, a point on which the Opposition tried to pin the Eknath Shinde-led government Tuesday.

Narayan Rane panel

In a first bid for a special law for Marathas, the then Prithviraj Chavan-led Congress government brought in an ordinance giving 16% reservation in government jobs and education to the community, ahead of the 2014 elections. It was based on the recommendations of a Narayan Rane-led committee, which was not a statutory backward class commission.

The ordinance was challenged before the Bombay High Court (HC), and it stayed the move in its interim order of November 2014. In the same year, the Supreme Court refused to vacate the stay.

In 2015, the BJP-Shiv Sena government led by Devendra Fadnis turned the ordinance into an Act, which was passed in the Assembly. A year later, the Bombay HC stayed the Act for its resemblance to the ordinance.

In 2017, the Fadnis government set up the Maharashtra State Backward Class commission under Justice (retired) M G Gaikwad of the Bombay High Court.

Gaikwad Commission

The Gaikwad panel gave its report in November 2018, after a survey of 43,629 families, with at least two villages picked from each of the state's 355 talukas where Marathas were over 50% of population.

The report said 76.86% of the Maratha families were engaged in agriculture and agriculture labour (combined), 6% in government and semi-government services, 3% in private services, 4% in trade and industry, and 9% in non-agricultural physical labour.

It also found that 13.42% of the Marathas were illiterate, 35.31% only had primary education, 43.79% had finished high school, and that the numbers dropped to just 6.71% for those who had finished graduation or post-graduation, while only 0.77% were technically and professionally qualified.

On the basis of this, then CM Fadnis brought in Maharashtra's Socially and Educationally Backward Class Act, 2018, providing Marathas 16% quota in education and government jobs.

The legislation was first challenged in Bombay HC, which ruled that the quota granted under the Act was not "justifiable", and reduced it to 12% in education and 13% in government jobs.

In May 2021, a Constitution Bench of Supreme Court (SC) struck down the quota altogether, noting that Maharashtra government failed to provide sufficient data to justify exceeding the 50% quota ceiling. The SC also referred to the findings of Gaikwad Commission that over 30% Marathas were in public service, and said the panel and HC had failed to consider that "Marathas are the dominant forward class".

The Court said the Gaikwad commission ought to have focused on what had happened since 2008 that Marathas became a backward class. At the same time, it "left it to the State to collect data to find out whether a particular case or community is to be included in backward class". It was based on this that the Justice Shukre panel was formed, with the Shinde government's brief for it being to go in for a large-scale survey, to ensure there was sufficient empirical data.

Shukre Commission

The committee was set up in December 2023 with Justice (retired) Sunil B Shukre of the Bombay HC as chairperson. Over the past two months, it claims to have surveyed 1,58,20,264 families across the state.

It notes that the population of Marathas in the state is 28%, while 84% of them are not advanced, adding such a large backward community cannot be added into the OBC bracket.

It describes extreme poverty, decline in agricultural income, and partitions in land holdings as reasons for the current status of the Marathas. It also notes that 94% of farmers who have died by suicide in the state belonged to the Maratha community.

The panel finds inadequate representation of the community in all sectors of public services, and says the Marathas have remained "completely out of the mainstream" due to their backwardness. It calls for separate reservation to Marathas to increase their representation in government jobs and developed sectors.

Shah: Modi govt ensured politics of performance

'Cong, Opp bloc have no leader, principles'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
JAIPUR, FEBRUARY 20

UNION HOME Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday targeted the Congress saying that the party cannot develop India or work for the welfare of the poor.

Addressing BJP workers in Udaipur, he called the Congress a dynastic and directionless party. "Congress party cannot develop India. It cannot provide welfare to the poor," Shah said, adding that the Modi government did several public welfare works in the last 10 years.

He also said the Congress is unable to enhance India's pride. "The Congress is a dynastic party. It is also a directionless party," Shah also alleged that the Congress "kept the issue of Ram Temple hanging" and always questioned the BJP about when the temple would be built.

"The party never had the intention that the Ram Temple be built in Ayodhya," he said.

"We had vowed that we would build Ram temple. Lord Ram, who is worshipped by crores of people, got humiliated while being in a tent. The Congress had kept the issue of Ram temple pending," he added.

Highlighting the achievements of the Centre, Shah said that the Modi government in the last 10 years brought 25 crore people out of poverty, provided houses to the poor, worked to strengthen the nation, abrogated Article 370 in J&K, and made India the fifth largest economy of the world.

He said that during the Congress rule, terrorists from Pakistan used to enter India and carry out blasts but the Modi government conducted surgical and air strikes against terrorists in Pakistan.

Shah said the government has worked to deliver good governance and even the opponents of PM Modi cannot make any allegations of corruption.

Targeting the previous Congress government in Rajasthan, he said that women and Dalits were not safe and riots were frequent but now a "double-engine" government has been formed and safe environment for women and Dalits will be there and the state will be free from riots.

He also said that the Modi government has worked to give honour to the tribal community and made Droupadi Murmu the President of India.

Shah also appealed to people to vote for the BJP in the upcoming Lok Sabha elections for further development of the nation under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

will complete their term on April 2, six will retire on April 3.

Nadda and three other BJP nominees — Jasvantsinh Parmar, Mayank Nayak and diamond baron Govindbhai Dholakia — were declared winners from Gujarat. The Congress, which has only 15 MLAs, and other opposition parties had preferred not to put up candidates against the BJP, which has 156 legislators in the 182-member Assembly.

From Rajasthan, Sonia Gandhi was elected unopposed, as were BJP's Chunnilal Garasiya and Madan Rathore.

All the six candidates from Maharashtra — BJP's Chavan, who joined the party last Tuesday after quitting the Congress, Medha Kulkarni and Ajit Gopchade; Shiv Sena's Milind Deora, who also quit the Congress last month, Praful Patel (NCP) and Chandrakant Handore (Cong) — were elected unopposed.

In Bihar, JD(U)'s Sanjay Kumar Jha, BJP's Dharmshila Gupta and Bhim Singh, RJD's Manoj Kumar Jha and Sanjay Yadav and Congress' Akhilesh Prasad Singh won.

From West Bengal, TMC's Sushmita Dev, Sagarika Ghose, Mamata Thakur and Md Nadimul Haque and Samik Bhattacharya of the BJP were declared winners.

Union minister Murugan, Valmiki Dham Ashram head Umesh Nath Maharaj, Kisan Morcha's national vice president Banshilal Gurjar and Madhya Pradesh BJP's women wing president Maya Naroliya bagged four seats for the BJP in Madhya Pradesh, while Ashok Singh of Congress also won unopposed.

From Odisha, Union minister Ashwini Vaishnaw (BJP) and BJD's Debashish Samantray and Subhashish Khuntia won.

YSR Congress candidates — G Babu Rao, Y V Subba Reddy and M Raghunath Reddy — won all the three seats in Andhra Pradesh, while in neighbouring Telangana, the ruling Congress bagged two seats — Renuka Chowdhury and Anil Kumar Yadav — and the BRS won one seat — V Ravichandra.

BJP nominees in Uttarakhand (Mahendra Bhatt), Subhash Barala (Haryana), Devendra Pratap Singh (Chhattisgarh) were elected unopposed.

SP names its Lok Sabha candidate from Varanasi

New Delhi: The Samajwadi Party on Tuesday declared its Lok Sabha candidate for Varanasi and appointed two leaders as in-charge for Amroha. Both Varanasi and Amroha featured in the list of 17 seats offered to the Congress.

In Varanasi, from where PM Narendra Modi won twice, the SP has fielded former minister Surendra Singh Patel, an OBC leader. The party has appointed Mehboob Ali and Ram Avatar Saini as in-charge of Amroha, indicating that either of two will contest from the seat if the Congress decides not to fight from there.

In Tuesday's list, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav has replaced his cousin Dharmendra Yadav with uncle Shivpal Singh Yadav in Badaun. In the first list of candidates released on January 30, the SP had announced Dharmendra's candidature from Badaun. On Tuesday, the SP appointed him as in-charge of both Kannauj and Azamgarh, dropping hints that he may contest the LS election from either of the two seats that are considered SP strongholds. ENS

DISPROPORTIONATE ASSETS CASE

Delhi HC refuses Shibu Soren's plea to quash Lokpal proceedings

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE DELHI High Court on Tuesday rejected former Jharkhand Chief Minister Shibu Soren's plea to quash Lokpal proceedings against him in a disproportionate assets case.

A division bench of Justices Rekha Palli and Rajnish Bhatnagar rejected Soren's plea that challenged Delhi High Court's single-judge order passed last month.

"...allegations levelled by the respondent no. 2 (BJP MP Nishikant Dubey) it is evident to us that the complaint pertains not only to purchase of properties, which the appellant claims were purchased more than 7 years ago, but also pertains to ongoing incidents of amassing wealth by misuse of power by the appellant (Soren)," noted the court.

The court also added that the Lokpal was yet to decide whether a prima facie case against Soren existed or not.

JMM chief and Jharkhand former CM Shibu Soren. File

"...the respondent no. 1 (Lokpal) is yet to take a decision as to whether or not a prima facie case exists for directing investigation against the appellant (Soren) by any agency, including the Delhi Special Police Establishment [CBI]," the bench observed.

The two-judge bench also noted that the complainant had levelled allegations against Soren and his family members of mis-using the funds of the exchequer for their personal and political gains with the assistance of one Amit Aggarwal, who was constructing a 22-storey building in Salt Lake, Kolkata.

The Delhi High Court had on January 22 refused to interfere in the Lokpal proceedings against Soren after Dubey filed a complaint alleging that Soren, his family members, associates, etc. had acquired several immovable properties in various districts of Jharkhand.

After Dubey filed a complaint in September 2020, the Lokpal subsequently directed the CBI to conduct a "preliminary inquiry" to ascertain whether there exists a "prima facie case for proceeding in the matter". The CBI submitted its report in June 2022, in which it said that Shibu Soren and his family did not declare several of their properties in affidavits filed with the Election Commission (EC) and thus are likely to have flouted the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

THE TROUBLESHOOTER

SUNDAY LAST, Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal referred to senior advocate A M Singhvi, who has been representing the party in several cases, as 'sankatmochan' (reliever of troubles). A day later, it was the senior counsel's turn to live up to the role, as he scored success one after the other in three cases before the Supreme Court, for three different parties. The senior counsel secured a stay on the breach of privilege notice issued by the Lok Sabha secretariat to West Bengal Chief Secretary and other officials on a complaint lodged by BJP MP Sukanta Majumdar over Sandeshkhali developments; got a stay on a criminal trial against Congress leader and Karnataka CM Siddaramaiah for a 2022 protest; and had a bench allow the Sharad Pawar faction of the NCP to use the name 'Nationalist Congress Party-Sharadchandra Pawar' granted by the Election Commission, till further orders. And on Tuesday, he successfully got a ruling in favour of the AAP candidate for the Chandigarh Mayor polls.

TECH CHECK

THE WHO event to launch the Global Initiative on Digital Health, which was spearheaded by India during its G20 presidency, experienced some technical glitches, leading to minor communication disruption. Taking it in stride, the director of WHO's digital health department, Dr Alain Labrique, who was coordinating the session, said in just that no good digital initiative goes without a technical issue. When it happened a second time, he referred to it as another gremlin crawling in the system and said it was a sobering reminder that sometimes things end up working better in rural India but not in the sophisticated rooms in Geneva.

Centre, Bengal officials to again meet today to discuss pending funds

HARIKISHAN SHARMA
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

DAYS AFTER West Bengal Chief Minister Mamta Banerjee announced that her government will pay the pending wages of 21 lakh MGNREGS workers by February 21, Central and state officials are set to hold talks on Wednesday to discuss pending dues and clearances under various central schemes, The Indian Express has learnt.

The Central team will be led by Rural Development Secretary Shailesh Kumar Singh and the West Bengal government will be represented by the state's Finance Secretary Manoj Pant, it is learnt.

Wednesday's discussion will be the second such meeting in less than a month on an issue that has riled the Mamata government, which has accused the BJP-led Centre of deliberately withholding funds to the state.

According to sources in the West Bengal government, about Rs 18,000 crore is due for the state under three rural development schemes — Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS), Pradhan Mantri Awaas Yojana (Gramin) (PMAY-G), Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana (PMGSY). In addition to this, the sources said, Rs 7,000 crore is pending under schemes that come under Union Food Ministry.

Alleging "irregularities", the Centre has said it will release further payments to West Bengal only if the funds sanctioned earlier were fully utilised and a report was sent to it.

The last meeting between the Central officials and the West Bengal officials was held on January 23. It came weeks after West Bengal CM Mamta Banerjee met PM Narendra Modi on December 20.

After the meeting, Banerjee said Modi assured her of holding a joint meeting of government officials to look into the state's demands on the release of Central funds.

Earlier this month, Banerjee had announced that her government would be transferring wages to the bank accounts of 21 lakh MGNREGS workers in the state by February 21. "I have to, run my family... Despite our limitations... we are running 67 social welfare schemes," she said.

MAULSHREE SETH
LUCKNOW, FEBRUARY 20

NEARLY A week after resigning from the post of Samajwadi Party general secretary alleging "discrimination" and accusing party chief Akhilesh Yadav of ignoring the "Pichda, Dalit and Alpasankhyak" (PDA) people, Swami Prasad Maurya on Tuesday quit the party.

Maurya, 70, who also resigned as a Member of the Legislative Council, alleged that Akhilesh Yadav's "secularism" has been exposed as he had defied "samajwadi (socialist) ideology" by conducting a puja at a party office, "putting even the BJP to shame".

While Maurya said he would reveal his future plan at a public meeting in Delhi on Thursday, sources said he could float his outfit, like he had done in 2016 after leaving the BSP.

In his resignation letter addressed to Akhilesh Yadav, Maurya wrote: "I got the opportunity to work under your leadership in a cordial atmosphere. However, after the February 12 dialogue and my letter of February 13, no dialogue was initiated from your side. That is why I am submitting my resignation letter from the primary membership of the Samajwadi Party."

On February 23, Maurya had resigned from the post of SP general secretary. On why he quit the Samajwadi Party, Maurya, referring to Akhilesh Yadav, said: "His secularism has been exposed. The one who gave the slogan of PDA, has punctured it. How can a person who is in the dark can show light to others?"

Alleging that Akhilesh had lost his way, Maurya said, "The one who is neither on this side or that, what will he show the road to others?"

Hitting out at the SP leadership for recently organising a puja at the party office, Maurya said: "SP people have lost their socialism way. I had seen Netaji Mulyam Singh Yadav also and started my political career under him, but he never worked against the Constitution. He worshipped in his own house for hours but used to forget about organising puja at the party office. He never visited a temple. However, today, the Samajwadi Party has started the tradition of organising puja at the party office."

Questioning Akhilesh's secular credentials further, Maurya said that Akhilesh had left even the BJP behind by performing the puja. "Even the BJP never performs a puja in its party offices... What kind of secular people are they (SP)? They organised a puja of Bhagwan Shaligram at the party office. Their secularism has now been seen by the entire country, world and society."

"BJP bhi inke puja ke samne sharma gayi hogi ki baji maar gaye Akhilesh Yadavji" (Akhilesh Yadav has put even the BJP to shame with this puja)," he added.

Asking Akhilesh to take a lesson from uncle Shivpal Singh Yadav, Maurya said that as long as Ram Gopal Yadav declared himself the leader of Samajwadi Party, the party would have dark future.

A prominent non-Yadav OBC face of Uttar Pradesh politics, Maurya had quit the Yogi Adityanath Cabinet ahead of the 2022 Assembly elections and joined the SP. He was known to take on the SP for around two decades, initially as a member of the BSP and later the BJP.

Dimple: Maurya didn't win poll, still made MLC

Lucknow: Saying that the SP leadership "respects and always respected" Swami Prasad Maurya, party MP Dimple Yadav on Tuesday said that after he failed to win in the Assembly elections, he was nominated by the party to the UP Legislative Council.

Reacting to Maurya's resignation, Dimple, the wife of SP chief Akhilesh Yadav, said: "Swami Prasad Maurya... failed to win his seat. Despite that, Samajwadi Party made him MLC and sent him to the Legislative Council... We respect him and have always respected him," she said. ENS

WHO launches digital health platform agreed upon in India's G20 presidency

ANONNA DUTT NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

ACHIEVING ONE of the three priority areas agreed upon during India's G20 presidency in 2023, the World Health Organization (WHO) Tuesday launched the Global Initiative on Digital Health (GIDH) virtually, a platform for sharing knowledge and digital products among countries.

At the launch of GIDH, Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya and India's representative to the UN Arindam Bagchi addressed the gathering.

The initiative will be a network of networks with four main components - country needs tracker, country resource portal (a map of resources available in a country), transformation toolbox that will share quality-assured digital tools, and knowledge exchange.

Calling it a "momentous day", Mandaviya said, "we have achieved the vision of establishing an institutional framework for digital health. This was a key deliverable of India's G20 presidency that was agreed upon in the Gandhinagar meeting in the presence of Dr Tedros (WHO director-general). This is a testament to our shared goal of digital health."

He said the platform will help in democratising digital health technologies, especially for countries of the Global South. He also urged the new director of WHO-South East Asia Region Saima Wazed to champion the implementation of digital health.

Mandaviya said the Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission is working towards creating a seamless electronic health record system in India.

Digital Mission is working towards creating a seamless electronic health record system in India.

Bagchi said that the pandemic was a catalyst for digital transformation, with India tracking cases digitally along with managing the largest vaccination drive through its CoWIN platform. He said the platform allowed India to issue digital, verifiable vaccination certificates. He spoke about Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission creating safe health accounts for all and the teleconsultation platform E Sanjeevani providing 140 million consultations so far.

WHO DG Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus: "GIDH will support countries in three ways - by listening to their needs, by aligning resources to avoid fragmentation and overlap, and by providing quality assured products. There is fragmentation and overlap because new tools are built without following common standards or shared vision. Health workers should not have to carry different devices for different diseases or have to maintain both electronic and physical records. We need systems that can speak to each other. Right now wheels are being re-invented because of poor knowledge sharing, sometimes within countries."

direction on its own. He asserted that just as India does not expect Europe to have a view of China that is identical to New Delhi's, Europe should understand that India cannot have a view of Russia that is identical to the European one. Jaishankar said India has had a "stable" and "very friendly" relationship with Russia, and that Moscow never hurt New Delhi's interests. "We, on the other hand, had a politically and militarily much more difficult relationship with China, for example," he said. Jaishankar said, "When the fighting started in Ukraine, Europe shifted a large part of its energy procurement to the Middle East (West Asia) - until then the main supplier for India and other countries."

JUSTIFIES BUYING CRUDE OIL FROM RUSSIA Moscow never hurt India's interests: EAM

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

FOLLOWING THE conflict in Ukraine, India's energy suppliers in West Asia gave priority to provide petroleum products to Europe that paid higher prices and New Delhi did not have any option but to procure Russian crude oil which in turn stabilised the global energy market, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said.

In an interview to German economic daily Handelsblatt, Jaishankar also suggested that India was open to play the role of a mediator to end the Russia-Ukraine conflict if approached, but at the same time, said New Delhi does not believe that it should initiate anything in this

SC flays ex-judge for retaining case file after retirement, quashes order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE SUPREME Court termed as "grossly inappropriate" the action of a former High Court judge who retained a case file for five months after retirement, and quashed the judgment pronounced by him in the case.

"Retaining file of a case for a period of five months after demitting office is an act of gross impropriety on the part of the learned judge. We cannot countenance what has been done in this case," a bench of justices AS

Oka and Ujjal Bhuyan said in its February 13 order.

It pointed out that the single judge who retired from the Madras HC on May 26, 2017, had pronounced the operative part of the judgment on April 17, 2017.

"There were five weeks available for the learned judge to release the reasoned judgment till the date on which he demitted office. However, the detailed judgment running into more than 250 pages has come out after a lapse of five months from the date on which the learned judge demitted the office. Thus, it is obvious that even after the learned judge demitted the office, he assigned reasons and made the judgment ready," the SC said. The former judge demitted office on May 26, 2017, and the detailed judgment was made available on October 23 that year.

The court said, "We cannot support such acts of impropriety and, therefore, only option is to set aside the impugned judgment and remit the cases to HC for a fresh decision."

10% Maratha quota and this warrants granting reservation to Maratha community in excess of 50 per cent.

In the Assembly, Shinde said there are 22 states that have over 50 per cent reservation. These include Tamil Nadu (69%), Haryana (67%), Bihar (75%).

Currently, Maharashtra has 52 per cent reservation - SC (13%), ST (7%), OBC (19%), Vimuktjati (3%), Nomadic Tribe B (2.5%), Nomadic Tribe C (3.5%), Nomadic Tribe D (2%), and Special Backward Classes (2%). Besides, 10 per cent is reserved for the EWS category and with the addition of 10 per cent for Marathas, total reservation in the state will reach 72%.

The commission arrived at the conclusion that the Maratha population accounts for 28 per cent in the state.

The Bill said the state government "on the basis of the exhaustive study by the Commission on various aspects regarding the Maratha community, the empirical, quantifiable and contemporary data, facts and statistics set out therein," decided that the Maratha community is a Socially and Educationally Backward Class and shall be specified as such under Article 342A(3) of the Constitution of India and to provide reservation for that class under Articles 15(4), 15(5) and 16(4) of the Constitution.

The commission report recommended that the Maratha community needed a separate denomination of percentage, distinct and separate from existing reserved categories and left it to the state government to decide the percentage of reservation for the Maratha community.

Shinde described the Bill as historic and bold and said it would survive the test of law. "As the head of the government, I have always maintained a positive mindset towards demands of every community, not only of Marathas. There will be no threat to the reservation of any community," he said.

With concerns being raised on the Bill clearing the legal test since the Supreme Court in 2021 had struck down a similar move to provide reservation to Marathas who had been described as socially and educationally backward, Shinde said, "We are giving this reservation by clearing all legal obstacles. There are many states that have gone beyond the (Supreme Court-mandated) limit of 50 per cent. We are confident that this government will be successful in safeguarding the reservation in court," he said.

But after the Bill cleared both Houses, Maratha quota activist Manoj Jarange-Patil said, "This reservation is not acceptable to us. We have been demanding that we should be given a quota in the OBC category. But the government has given us a separate reservation which is exceeding the 50 per cent ceiling and will not stand the scrutiny of the law. This is a betrayal and is being done considering the polls. Marathas will not trust you. The community will benefit only from a law on 'sage soyare' demand."

Corruption case: CBI searches premises of ex-DPIIT Secy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE CBI on Tuesday searched the premises of former Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) Secretary Ramesh Abhishek, days after registering an FIR against him for allegedly amassing assets disproportionate to his known sources of income. The CBI has also booked his daughter and is investigating her finances.

The 1982-batch IAS officer retired in 2019 from DPIIT, the erstwhile Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion (DIPP).

The FIR was registered on February 15 following a recommendation from anti-corruption ombudsman Lokpal.

"Hon'ble Lokpal of India vide order dated December 20, 2003 in complaint made before it, has directed Delhi Special Police Establishment (CBI) to conduct investigation into doubtful transactions entered into by Ramesh Abhishek and his daughter Vaneesa Agrawal by way of receiving big amounts as professional fee or consulting fee from various entities/organisations with whom Ramesh Abhishek had official dealings while he was secretary DPIIT or Chairman Forward Market Commission..." the FIR said.

"...Therefore, in compliance of the directions of Hon'ble Lokpal of India, a Regular Case is registered against Ramesh Abhishek, Vannesa and unknown others," the FIR said.

SANDESHKHALI UNREST

TMC strongman on the run, HC raps cops: 'State can't support it'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
KOLKATA, FEBRUARY 20

THE CALCUTTA High Court on Tuesday took an exception to the West Bengal Police's inability to arrest TMC strongman Shahjahan Sheikh who allegedly orchestrated an attack on an ED team during a raid on his premises in Sandeshkhali of North 24 Parganas district last month.

Hearing a plea by the state government against a single-judge bench order staying the imposition of CrPC Section 144 in Sandeshkhali and permitting BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari to visit the area, a division bench of Chief Justice TS Swaminathan and Justice Hiranmay Bhattacharya refused to interfere with the orders.

The division bench said in its order, "The court can take judicial notice of the fact that the entire problem stood precipitated after the Enforcement Directorate conducted a search operation on the premises of Shahjahan. The police are unable to apprehend him despite a case having been registered for various offences."

The bench orally remarked, "We have seen... women from the area have flagged several issues, and there has been land-grabbing of tribal people. This person (Shahjahan) cannot be on the run. The state cannot support it. In the suo motu matter, we will ask him to surrender here. He can't be defying the law. If one person can hold the entire population to ransom, the ruling dispensation should not support him."

Stating it does not know "whether he is being protected" or not, the court said that the fact remains that he has not been secured. "It could mean that the state police machinery doesn't have the wherewithal to secure him or (he) is outside the jurisdiction of the state police," the court observed. The bench said there is material to show that Shahjahan has done damage to the public, instead of doing good as an elected representative in the North 24 Parganas zila parishad.

Directing that the matter will be taken up for hearing next Monday, the division bench said appropriate orders will be passed after hearing all the parties.

The court said establishing redressal mechanisms over allegations of forcible taking away of land owned by villagers in Sandeshkhali by way of setting up camps by the state government, in itself prima facie shows that land grabbing was committed in the area. "The allegation that the lands owned by the tribal villagers have been forcibly taken away in violation of the legal formalities stands prima facie established," the CJ observed.

The bench further said, "It has also been widely reported that the state having come to know that the lands of certain people in the Sandeshkhali area have been taken away from them in violation of the procedure have established redressal mechanism, whereby the people, who have been affected by such violation were permitted to lodge their complaints.

The establishment of this redressal mechanism prima facie shows that there has been land-grabbing committed in the area and the allegation that the lands owned by the tribal villagers have been forcibly taken away in violation of the legal formalities stands prima facie established."

The bench directed notices be issued to advocate general representing the state and that the additional solicitor general representing the Union of India be informed so that lawyers representing ED and CBI are present before the court on the next date of hearing of the suo motu matter.

At Milan-24, Navy offers its submarine rescue capability

AMRITA NAYAK DUTTA
VISAKHAPATNAM, FEB 20

INDIAN NAVY is offering its submarine rescue capabilities to friendly countries, a key highlight of the ongoing multilateral naval exercise Milan-24 in Visakhapatnam that will further India's defence diplomacy.

On Tuesday, the Navy showcased its Deep Submergence Rescue Vehicle (DSRV) to the delegates of 50 countries at the mega naval exercise that began on Monday.

A submarine rescue operation is undertaken when the vessel is reported missing or has sunk. The DSRV can help in locating the disabled submarine, rescue the trapped personnel or provide them emergency supplies.

The Navy had acquired two advanced DSRVs—one each for India's west coast and east coast in Mumbai and Visakhapatnam, respectively—in 2018 and 2019 from James Fisher Defence, UK.

As on date, India is among the 12 countries, including the US, China, Russia and Singapore, to possess this niche technology.

Naval officers from various countries pose during Milan-24 in Visakhapatnam, Tuesday. PTI

Only 40 countries operate submarines.

Additionally, the Navy is also awaiting induction of two diving support vessels (DSVs)—also for submarine rescue operations—being indigenously made by Hindustan Shipyard Ltd, Visakhapatnam.

Talking to the media on the sidelines of the event, Rear Admiral K Venkatraman, Flag Officer Submarines, said several nations have shown a keen interest in making use of India's capability.

He said while the Navy already has an Implementing Agreement with Singapore, a similar pact is expected with South Africa during MILAN-24, adding that Japan and some other countries have also shown interest in it.

Addressing the foreign delegates Tuesday, Captain Vikas Gautam, officer in-charge, Submarine Rescue Unit (East), said the DSRV system is capable of reaching anywhere across the globe in times of distress.

In 2021, the Navy mobilised one of its DSRV to assist Tentara

Nasional Indonesia-Angkatan Laut (TNIAL-Indonesian Navy) in search and rescue efforts for the Indonesian Submarine KRI Nanggala which was reported missing. Indian Navy's DSRV system can locate a submarine up to 1,000-metre depth utilising its state-of-the-art Side Scan Sonar (SSS) and Remotely Operated Vehicle (ROV).

Live undersea matings with different types of submarines along with transfer of personnel from submarine to DSRV has also been achieved. As per officials, the rescue operation can take place within 96 hours even as it, at times, depends on other factors like the logistics and infrastructure available. The indigenously-built Diving Support Vessels (DSVs) are 118.4 metres long, 22.8 metres at the broadest point and will have a displacement of 9,350 tonnes and they would be deployed for deep sea diving operations. Aside from submarine rescue operations, they will be capable of sustained patrolling, conducting search and rescue operations and carrying out helicopter operations at high seas. HC sets aside disqualification of two Rajkot corporators

GOPAL KATESHIYA
RAJKOT, FEBRUARY 20

THE GUJARAT High Court set aside an order of the state government disqualifying two Congress corporators in Rajkot Municipal Corporation (RMC) after they defected to the AAP. The HC exercised its extraordinary jurisdiction to restore the two defectors' membership to RMC after noting they had been pardoned by Congress.

The court of Justice Vaibhavi Nanavati had on February 16 ruled in favour of Vashram Sagathiya and Komal Bharai, who were elected RMC corporators in 2021 but disqualified in October 2022 by the state urban development and urban housing department. They had defected to AAP on April 14, 2022, halving Congress's strength to just two in the 72-member RMC general board ruled by the BJP.

Sagathiya welcomed the HC order and said he had full faith in court.

Karnataka Cong records first win against BJP-JD(S) alliance in Legislative Council bypoll

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
BENGALURU, FEBRUARY 20

THE KARNATAKA Congress on Tuesday claimed its first victory over the newly formed JD(S)-BJP alliance in the state in a Legislative Council bypoll to the Bangalore Teachers' seat.

Congress candidate P Puttanna defeated JD(S) nominee A P Ranganath on the seat that the BJP had handed over to its new ally in Karnataka as part of the seat-sharing arrangements ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha polls. The JD(S) fielded the president of its legal cell, A P Ranganath, who lost the last Council election from the Teachers' seat to Puttanna.

Puttanna, who registered his fifth consecutive win in the constituency, was previously a BJP MLC. The bypoll was warranted after he quit the seat in March 2023 to contest the Assembly elections on a Congress ticket, but lost the poll. Before joining the BJP in 2020, Puttanna had won the Council poll thrice on JD(S) ticket.

The Congress candidate polled 8,260 votes and defeated Ranganath by a margin of 1,507.

"This is a special day for the Congress. The joint candidate of the JD(S) and BJP under a new alliance has been defeated. The seat was won by the BJP earlier, but it allowed the JD(S) to field its candidate," Karnataka Deputy CM D K Shivakumar said Tuesday. "I would like to say some BJP-JD(S) leaders claimed the polls will be an indicator of things to come. The results have come and Puttanna of the Congress has won the polls. The voters who are educated and are teachers have rejected the BJP-JD(S) (alliance) and have voted for the Congress. The same mood will prevail in the state in the Lok Sabha polls," he said.

The bypoll held on February 16 was being touted as the first test for the BJP-JD(S) alliance in Karnataka ahead of the LS polls.

Karnataka CM Siddaramaiah had said ahead of the polls that despite the BJP-JD(S) alliance the Congress will win the seat. "This constituency is the one which Puttanna had resigned from to contest the Assembly polls. He is contesting for the fifth time. In the past he has defeated the BJP and the JD(S). He has the support of the teachers and has also won their hearts..." the CM said.

Kuldeep Kumar Tita: From Safai karamchhari to Chandigarh Mayor

HINA ROHTAKI
CHANDIGARH, FEBRUARY 20

AS SUPREME Court declared him the mayor of Chandigarh Municipal Corporation on Tuesday, AAP councillor Kuleep Kumar Tita shed tears of joy. Only 21 days ago, visuals of Tita breaking into tears had went viral on social media after his rival BJP candidate emerged winner in the mayoral polls with the returning officer declaring at least eight votes polled by the AAP councillor as invalid.

"It is a victory of democracy, victory of Chandigarh residents and victory of truth. Today, I have tears of joy," said Kumar.

The verdict came as culmination of hard fought legal battle for the 40-year-old councillor from Dadumajra. Before taking the electoral plunge in 2021, the bachelors degree holder from IGNOU had worked as safai karamchhari in the Chandigarh civic body and was stationed at Sector 22 in 2018.

Kuldeep Kumar Tita on Tuesday. Kamleshwar Singh

"At that time, I cleaned the streets as a safai karamchhari. Now, I will get them cleaned as the mayor. I have already managed to clean the 'dirt' the BJP had created by its misdeeds," said Kumar.

Kumar was once associated with the BJP's SC Morcha and was elected the chairman of the Valmiki community in Dadumajra. In 2019, he contested the polls to the RWA of Dadumajra on Congress ticket and won.

In 2021, he joined the AAP. "When I was with the BJP, I was very young... in 2010... I didn't have much information," said Kumar, who had defeated BJP's then sitting councillor and former mayor Rajesh Kalia from Ward 26 to enter the civic body as a councillor in 2021. At present, he runs a tent business in Dadumajra.

PDP leader Baig at Modi's rally: 'Have come to listen to my PM'

ARUN SHARMA
JAMMU, FEBRUARY 20

SENIOR PDP leader and former Deputy CM Muzaffar Hussain Baig was present at PM Narendra Modi's rally here Tuesday, setting off fresh speculation about leaders who might join the BJP in Jammu and Kashmir.

One of the founding members of the PDP, Baig is a prominent Pahari leader from Kashmir. Several prominent tribal leaders from other parties have joined the BJP in recent days but, if he does so, Baig will be the first Pahari leader from the Kashmir province to follow in their wake.

Baig neither confirmed nor denied whether he would be joining the BJP, asking instead: "Can't one come to listen to one's PM?"

Describing his presence at the rally as "my duty", he added: "It is not necessary to join, but will perform my duty as per their (PM's) programme... Joining any party frustrates the larger goal of one nation." He said he has always had good relations with Modi, and that under his leadership, J&K had seen massive development; Kashmir had seen it "500 per cent". "... He (Modi) never asked me about my party, but always asked what our people needed."

Baig also said contrary to the belief the Modi government will face a backlash in Kashmir in the coming LS polls on account of the abrogation of Article 370, it will "perform well" in the province.

In March 2021, Baig formally joined Sajad Lone's Peoples

Conference, only to be expelled.

He "rejoined" the PDP only last month, claiming he had never left. PDP leaders were not too happy over his return as Baig was seen to have taken a position contrary to the party's over abrogation of Article 370, and was awarded the Padma Bhushan in January 2020, barely six months after the Centre took the decision. The award was accepted by Baig even when most of his party leadership including Mufti were behind bars and booked under the Public Safety Act. Asked about Baig's presence at the rally, a senior PDP functionary said Baig had never formally rejoined the party.

Baig's move comes weeks after Parliament passed Bills extending ST status to Pahari-speaking ethnic groups and others.

Anupamaa fame actor Rituraj Singh dies of cardiac arrest at 59

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

POPULAR TELEVISION actor Rituraj Singh, 59, died of a cardiac arrest late Monday night.

Known for his appearances in a number popular TV shows such as 'Anupamaa', 'Kahaani Ghar Ghar Kii', 'Kutumb', 'Hitler Didi', 'Diya Aur Baati Hum', and 'Yeh Rishta Kya Kehlata Hai', Rituraj also acted in several movies such as 'Badrinath Ki Dulhania' as well as web-series 'Criminal Justice', 'The Test Case', 'Bandish Bandits' and just-released 'Indian Police Force'.

He was born in Rajasthan's Kota on May 23, 1964.

Speaking about his demise, actor Amit Behl said: "He was hospitalised 15 days back due to some pancreatic issues. He was back home a few days back. Yesterday, he felt really weak and was rushed to hospital but he suffered cardiac arrest on the way."

He is survived by wife Charu Singh, a son and a daughter. His funeral will take place at 10:30 am at Mumbai's Oshiwara Hindu Cemetery on Wednesday.

Actor Sandip Siskand, who worked with Singh in 'Kahani Ghar Ghar Kii', said: "More than an actor, he was one of the finest human beings that I know. I'm really saddened by the news."

In a social media post, actor Nakuul Mehta wrote: "His electric presence, frenetic energy and full-bodied acting chops always had me in awe. I got a chance to play his on screen son on two seasons of 'Never Kiss Your Best Friend', and therein I had my moment with my TV hero... He gave me great joy as an audience and then he gave me some more whilst sharing a set with him."

Rituraj's first major break on television was as the host of 'Tol Mol Ke Bol' (1993) and 'Banegi Apni Baat' (1993-1997).

Rituraj, who was a student at Barry John's Theatre Action Group where Shah Rukh Khan was his classmate, was a well-known name in the amateur theatre in Delhi before he shifted to Mumbai.

Even though television kept him busy in Mumbai, he was part of Rage Production's long-running play, 'Class of '84'.

Buddha's relics at National Museum to be on display in Thailand

DIVYAA
NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

FOUR OF THE 20 relics of Lord Buddha preserved at the National Museum are being taken to Thailand for a month-long exposition beginning Thursday, in a rare trip abroad for the delicate antiquities recovered more than a century ago.

The relics fall under the 'AA' (rare) category of antiquities and art treasures and are not meant to be lent for exhibitions, within India or in foreign nations. But the exposition in Thailand was being held upon a "special request" by the Thai Government, the Ministry of Culture said.

Union Culture Secretary Govind Mohan told a press conference the relics will be ferried to Thailand as "state guest" in a special Indian Air Force plane. "The relics will reach Thailand on February 22 and will be displayed at a special pavilion in Bangkok until March 3," he said, adding that the relics will later be taken to Chiang Mai, Ubol Ratchathani and Krabi, before returning to India on March 19.

The relics will be accompanied by a 22-member official delegation led by Bihar Governor Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar and Union Minister of Social Justice and Empowerment, Virendra Kumar. Monks from Kushinagar, Aurangabad and Ladakh, besides the curators from the National Museum, will also be travelling along with the relics.

In view of the 'AA' category and considering their delicate nature, the relics are not ordinarily taken out of India for exhibition. The last time these were sent abroad was in 2022, for an exposition in Mongolia.

The relics at the National Museum are known as the 'Kapilvastu Relics' as they were recovered in 1898 from a site in Bihar believed to be the ancient city of Kapilvastu.

It was an inscribed casket found at the stupa site in Piprahwa (near Siddharthnagar in Uttar Pradesh) that helped identify Kapilvastu. The casket contained the relics of Buddha and Sakyas, his community. Along with the Buddha relics, the relics of his two disciples preserved in Madhya Pradesh's Sanchi are also being sent to Thailand for display. It will be the first time the relics of Lord Buddha and his disciples will be showcased together.

The event is being organised with the support of Ministry of External Affairs, the Indian Embassy in Thailand, the International Buddhist Confederation and the Madhya Pradesh government.

GREENING GROWTH

WEAKENING PROCESSES OF ENVIRONMENTAL CLEARANCES FOR PROJECTS HURT BOTH ENVIRONMENT AND DEVELOPMENT

GOVERNMENTS IN DEVELOPING countries face a dilemma, a political-economic conundrum that requires a fine balancing act. On the one hand, in light of climate change and the degradation of fragile and vulnerable ecologies, there is a need for regulation of projects that have a potentially adverse environmental impact. On the other hand, investment and infrastructure development are crucial for employment generation and poverty alleviation. The provision of Environmental Clearance (EC) under the Environment Impact Assessment (EIA) rules — notified in 2006 under the Environmental (Protection) Act — was meant to strike the right balance between the imperatives of growth and development and the environment. The EC is meant to be mandatory for various projects, including mining, thermal plants, those in river valleys, and infrastructure and industrial programmes. Unfortunately, as a report in this newspaper has shown, the balance between environment and industry seems to be tilting far too much towards the latter.

In 2017, the government brought in a loophole to the EIA and gave a six-month moratorium to all the companies that had not complied with the requirements to receive an EC. This one-time window was made indefinite under the revised Standard Operating Procedures in 2021. The notification was challenged before the Madras High Court, which granted a stay order. The Centre, however, interpreted the order as applying only to Tamil Nadu. Then, in January 2024, the Supreme Court stayed the notification, and the Court's final decision is pending. In essence, between 2017 and 2024, over 100 projects — they include coal, iron and bauxite mines, steel and iron factories, cement plants and limestone quarries — have been granted ex post facto environmental clearance under the diluted EIA, their original lack of EC notwithstanding.

Environmental clearances for business and infrastructure projects have been a fraught issue for decades. Under multiple governments and environment ministers of varying ideological leanings, the pendulum has swung both ways: At different points, the Environment Ministry has been dubbed either "anti-business" or "anti-environment". However, by any standard, the weakening of the EIA, and the National Green Tribunal, is a matter of deep concern that needs to be addressed urgently — in 2020, an Environmental Performance Index of Yale University ranked India 168 amongst 220 countries. Perhaps the only sustainable way to do this is to not see "environment" and "development" locked in an inevitably zero-sum game. It's time to move to environmentalism as development and development as environmentalism. As climate change and sustainability increasingly become a part of the global business conversation, India has the opportunity to be a leader in this regard. This will, however, require a robust policy and regulatory framework, which while facilitating business, allows for a careful assessment of the adverse impacts of projects, and does not constantly search for and seize the loopholes.

EL NINO, LA NINA

BUT AIR POLLUTION IN INDIAN CITIES IS BECAUSE OF FACTORS THAT LIE MUCH CLOSER HOME

A NEW STUDY has linked air pollution over cities like Delhi and Mumbai to external factors like El Nino and La Nina, and climate change. This is the first time that such external phenomena have been noticed to have an impact over air quality in Indian cities. To be sure, these external factors do not generate any new sources of pollution. But they have the potential to influence the distribution of pollutants over different regions by altering meteorological conditions like wind patterns and temperatures. The study found that the fact that Delhi air was cleaner than usual, and Mumbai air dirtier than usual in the winter of 2022 could, in part, be explained by the record-breaking La Nina event in the Pacific Ocean, which was persisting for the third consecutive year at that time. The study also suggested that under climate change scenarios, expected to exacerbate the strengths and frequencies of El Nino and La Nina kind of events, such external influences might have a bigger role to play in the distribution of air pollutants over Indian cities.

These influences are pretty weak as of now. As the study suggests, only very strong El Nino or La Nina events are likely to have any significant impact on the local meteorological conditions. But this could still have implications for India's efforts to clean up its air. The influences could potentially grow stronger under climate change scenarios as the study suggests, and that would mean that clean-up measures would face another hurdle that is completely beyond human control. This could result in entirely unexpected scenarios, as was seen in Mumbai in the 2022 winter, something the cities are not prepared for.

Tackling the emissions of pollutants at source still remains the most effective way of addressing air pollution. Air in Indian cities is dirty because the baseload emissions are very high. Once in a while, favourable meteorological conditions might help in reducing the impacts, but there is no short-cut to cutting down on baseload emissions. Fancy, or quick fix, solutions like artificial rain or odd-even schemes are nothing more than window dressing, and quite ineffective at that. The study also recommends that the focus of the government must remain on long-term strategies to reduce emissions from the sources themselves and not rely on quick fix solutions. That would be a win-win solution for both air quality and climate change, it says.

MAGICIAN FROM CHENNAI

NO ONE HAS PLOTTED THE BATSMAN'S DOWNFALL AS EFFECTIVELY IN RECENT TIMES AS OFF-SPINNER RAVICHANDRAN ASHWIN

A TOP-CLASS SPINNER has to be like a chess grandmaster, plotting a batsman's downfall over a number of deliveries or overs. There has been no one better at it in recent times than off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin. There are 501 pieces of evidence to support this argument. Ashwin is not like Muthiah Muralitharan — who was more like a wrist-spinner in the garb of a finger-spinner. The Sri Lankan often made batsmen look clueless with the amount of spin he generated, and its direction. Ashwin's calling card is of a more cerebral nature. He plays with angles, pace and degrees of spin, as also field placement. The batsman knows he is in a battle, and can never afford to take his eye off the ball even if he temporarily enjoys the upper hand.

Conditions and playing surface play a big role in cricket, and they are usually an ally for a spinner in India. But many of Ashwin's most memorable dismissals have come in England and Australia, where his guile comes to the fore with the track offering him precious little. Among his list of victims are the finest batsmen. He has got the England skipper Ben Stokes 12 times. Other top stars he has repeatedly scalped are David Warner (11), Steve Smith (8), Joe Root (6), Kane Williamson (5) and Kumar Sangakkara (4). Left-arm spinner Ravindra Jadeja may be a more tempting all-round option, but Ashwin's skill with the ball is more prosaic in nature when compared to his spin-twin.

India have been invincible at home since 2012, when Ashwin was taking his initial steps in Test cricket. While Anil Kumble, with 619 Test wickets, tops the list among Indians, the Magician from Chennai is a worthy second. There is a risk of taking Ashwin's dominance for granted. He is 37, and is largely a Test specialist these days. India is considered to have a never-ending assembly line of quality spinners, but whether the next generation will have the all-weather love for the contest, once Ashwin hangs up his boots, remains to be seen.

PUSHPENDRA SINGH

IN THE LAST two years, nothing concrete was done by the central government on the agreement it had reached with agitating farmers' unions, who had protested near the national capital. The government should have had the wisdom to act and take a decision on a legal guarantee for Minimum Support Price (MSP) and other demands with alacrity, lest they become the basis for a renewed agitation. This lack of action is the reason and justification for farmer unions launching the current agitation. The purpose is to press the government to fulfil its promises. This time too, the debate is around the feasibility of their primary demand — the legal guarantee for MSP.

Let's frame what the demand actually is. It has two parts. First, MSP should be based on the comprehensive cost of production (C2), as determined by the Commission for Agricultural Costs and Prices (CACP), plus 50 per cent, as recommended by the Swaminathan Commission. This was also promised by the BJP and articulated several times by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The second part of the demand is that the 23 crops for which MSP is thus announced should be legally purchased at or above the MSP price by anyone who "willingly enters" the market.

The total value of the output of the 23 crops at MSP prices for the year 2023-24 is about Rs 15 lakh crore. But all of the produce is not marketed or sold. The farmers retain a big part of their produce for their consumption, animal feed and seeds. A portion is also exchanged/bartered within the village and some is used to pay for labour in kind. A part of the crop is also eaten by rodents or perishes during harvesting, transportation and storage. These heads account for about one-third of the 23 MSP crops — produce worth Rs 5 lakh crore. So, only about Rs 10 lakh crore worth of the MSP crops actually goes to the markets.

MSP IS WHAT FARMERS NEED TO REMAIN IN BUSINESS. GIVING IT LEGAL BACKING WILL BENEFIT ALL STAKEHOLDERS

Some economists argue that if the MSP is legally enforced, the private sector won't purchase the crops and all the produce will have to be bought by the government. Farmers are seeking an enforcement of the price only for those entities that "willingly enter" the market. In the case of sugarcane, for example, the price is prescribed by the government but that hasn't meant that private mills have stopped purchasing sugarcane. Have industries closed due to the Minimum Wages Act? Is nobody purchasing petrol and diesel because the government is charging exorbitant taxes?

Government purchase, including sugarcane purchase at government-prescribed prices, is at about Rs 4-5 lakh crore. Only Rs 5-6 lakh crore worth of MSP crops is bought by the private sector. If we take the long-term aggregate for all 23 MSP crops, what is paid by the private sector is on average 25 per cent below the MSP value. If there was legal status for MSP, then the private sector would have paid a maximum of Rs 1.5 lakh crore more to the farmers for the same quantities in 2023-24. So, even if the whole of this bill is picked up by the government, it won't be more than Rs 1.5 lakh crore annually — not the exorbitant figures being quoted by the so-called economists. We should remember that the reduction of corporate tax rates in 2019 alone led to the foregone of about Rs 1.5 lakh crore annually by the central government, a figure that keeps rising every year.

If this money flows to the farmers, they will spend it and thus create more demand in the market. Due to the multiplier effect, this will lead to an increase in employment, investment and eventually government taxes. All 23 crops being legally sold at MSP will also lead to crop diversification, which is the focus of the recent offer from the government. Since there would be no incentive to grow only those crops where MSP is now available — mostly paddy, wheat and sugarcane — it will lead to various economic and ecological benefits. Legal MSP would be a great instrument to control the production quantities of various crops to match demand.

The country would also become self-sufficient in edible oils and pulses if we ensure remunerative MSP for these crops. If the government and private prices for the crops are the same, farmers won't seek out the government to purchase their crops. So, the Centre will not be financially burdened by having to purchase more quantities than it requires. This will lead to a reduction in government purchase, storage and redistribution costs for these crops. That is a huge financial saving. It will help lower the fiscal deficit and improve government finances. Hence, a legal guarantee for MSP is a win-win for all stakeholders.

Some economists argue that if the MSP is legally enforced, the private sector won't purchase the crops and all the produce will have to be bought by the government. Farmers are seeking an enforcement of the price only for those entities that "willingly enter" the market. In the case of sugarcane, for example, the price is prescribed by the government but that hasn't meant that private mills have stopped purchasing sugarcane. Have industries closed due to the Minimum Wages Act? Is nobody purchasing petrol and diesel because the government is charging exorbitant taxes?

By definition, MSP is a minimum price that the farmer must get to remain in business. Without such a price, farmers will become bankrupt and leave farming, which will have serious consequences for our food security, adversely affecting consumers. Legal MSP is a viable proposal and the rights of our farmers can't be denied any longer.

SADAF HUSSAIN

IN TIMES PAST, royal cooks from Awadh and Rampur were celebrated for the art of gastronomic subterfuge — crafting dishes that masqueraded as one thing, while being something else altogether. Chef Imtiaz Qureshi, who died last week at the age of 93, was no less ingenious. At 31, against the backdrop of the India-China war of 1962, he was commissioned to concoct exclusively vegetarian dishes by then chief minister of Uttar Pradesh and fan of Awadhi cuisine, Chandra Bhanu Gupta, for an official dinner. As a committed meat eater and the son of a butcher who had once supplied meat to the British army in Lucknow, Qureshi eagerly took on the challenge. He spent a week using all the skills at his disposal to make dishes like lotus stem shami kebab with onion, green chilli, lemon, and orange; murg musallam with jackfruit and brinjal; fish musallam with bottle gourd; and paneer pasanda. The distinguished guests, including then Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, thought they were eating meat, but they were actually enjoying completely vegetarian dishes.

As I write this tribute to the nation's first celebrity chef, I am at Khan Market in Delhi, enjoying the exquisite flavours of kakori kebab — a preparation whose resurgence owes much to the maestro himself. In an interview from 2018, Chef Qureshi recalled that for over a century, the recipe for this dish was known only to a few families in Lucknow. Qureshi's forebears prepared them for affluent households during special events. So loved was this delicacy that the earnings from making it was enough to sustain their family for weeks, Qureshi recalled. Their introduction into Indian

USTAD IMTIAZ QURESHI

HE WAS MORE THAN A CHEF, GOING BEYOND FOOD TO OFFER LIFE LESSONS

The relentless dedication to his craft led to him becoming the first chef to be honoured with a Padma Shri award in 2016, marking a significant milestone in his illustrious career. I have always regarded him more as an 'ustad' than a chef. An 'ustad' transcends the confines of cookbook instructions, offering life lessons, encouraging the embrace of mistakes as stepping stones to learning.

restaurant cuisine, he said, happened thanks to encouragement from the late Ajit Narain Hakkar, the first Indian chairman of ITC, who brought him into the company.

Qureshi was the fifth child of Murad Ali and Sakina Qureshi. At the age of nine, he began working at his brother-in-law Haji Ishaq's catering service in Lucknow. By the age of 15, he was already skilled in preparing sheermal, korma, galouti kebabs and pulao, and even catered to 10,000 members of the NCC at one time. This experience ignited a passion for cooking, leading him to start his own catering business. But destiny had other plans for him and his journey took a significant turn when he started working at Krishna Caterers, which fed Indian soldiers during the 1962 war. It was this position that brought him into close contact with the chief minister, and through him, to other political notables, including Nehru.

I met Qureshi for the first time at the grand finale of MasterChef India in 2019. At first overwhelmed with nervous excitement, I managed to introduce myself to him and initiated a conversation about the art of cooking — discussing food, spices, techniques, and everything culinary that crossed my mind. Qureshi imparted wisdom that I still hold dear: "Sadaf, the most important aspect of cooking is to truly understand the food and the spices you're incorporating. Whether you're using a single spice or 50, the essence lies in comprehending the purpose behind each addition and mastering the quantity. Once you grasp this, you're on your way to creating the finest dishes."

The second encounter I had with him was at another event in Delhi, and this time, to my delight, he recognised me. I expressed my gratitude for all that he has done for young aspiring chefs and culinary historians like myself. His response was both encouraging and inspirational. He told me to continue my work, saying, "We need more people like you who can document food and carry on the tradition. Do not hesitate to put in extra effort, and keep at it until you are completely satisfied". This relentless dedication to his craft led to him becoming the first chef to be honoured with a Padma Shri award in 2016, marking a significant milestone in his illustrious career.

I have always regarded him more as an ustad than a chef. An ustad transcends the confines of cookbook instructions, offering life lessons, encouraging the embrace of mistakes as stepping stones to learning. Manisha Bhasin, the corporate executive chef at ITC Hotels, who apprenticed under Qureshi, told me, "For many of us burgeoning chefs, working alongside him was nothing short of a dream. His critiques could make us tremble, yet when he imparted his knowledge, it was with an unparalleled depth of care and affection".

The passing of Imtiaz Qureshi — who was also known as Pehelwan Qureshi, due to his early training in wrestling — marks the end of an era. He was known for his encouragement towards all, his humility, and eagerness to learn from others. His legacy endures not only through his legendary culinary creations but also through the extraordinary journey that defined his life and touched so many.

PM VISITS NELLIE

WHILE ARRANGEMENTS WERE being made for Mrs Gandhi's visit to Nellie, and possibly Mangaldai, 45 more bodies were discovered in the Valley and the toll around Nellie was authoritatively put around 600 as the penultimate round of what has now become a four-phase polling ended with thin voting. The AASU and AAGSP gave a call for a 13-hour Gauhati bandh coinciding with the PM's visit.

THE TRIPARTITE TALKS between the Centre, the Akali Dal and leaders of Opposition

The river waters issue, which has been discussed for two days, was near solution but a hitch on one clause of the agreement stalled it. Even the territorial claims which appeared almost settled could not make headway.

N-FUEL REPROCESSED

INDIA HAS BEEN reprocessing spent nuclear fuel at the Tarapur reprocessing plant for the last two months, according to sources in the Department of Atomic Energy in Bombay. The spent fuel is from the Rajasthan atomic power plant. The quantity of fuel being reprocessed is not known. This is the first time that India has carried out commercial-scale reprocessing of spent fuel from power reactors.

Why are we falling ill so often?

Greater incidence of influenza could be linked to evolving strains of the virus, antimicrobial resistance

KAMINI WALIA

THERE IS A growing concern over the escalation of respiratory diseases, particularly Influenza A (H1N1), in India. The most recent data from the National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) suggests a resurgence of Influenza A (H1N1) cases in Kerala, Maharashtra, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Chhattisgarh, Sikkim, Uttarakhand and West Bengal, with a few states also reporting deaths related to influenza. An NCDC report highlighted the presence of A(H1N1) pdm09, A(H3N2), and Type B Victoria lineage strains in India. These flu viruses in India are similar to the ones found worldwide and are of the same type that the World Health Organization (WHO) recommends vaccines for, specifically the Southern Hemisphere 2024. Clinicians have advised people with cough and cold symptoms to get tested for both flu and Covid-19, as there has been an increase in chest infections and hospital admissions. In response to a rise in influenza infections in the country, the NCDC has recommended the prudent use of the Southern Hemisphere's 2024 quadrivalent influenza vaccine.

Seasonal influenza (the flu) is an acute respiratory infection caused by influenza viruses. It is highly contagious, affects the respiratory system, including the nose, throat and lungs, and is common in all parts of the world. Seasonal influenza is characterised by a sudden onset of fever, cough (usually dry), headache, muscle and joint pain, severe malaise (feeling unwell), sore throat and a runny nose. The cough can be severe and can last two or more weeks. Most people recover from fever and other symptoms within a week without requiring medical attention. But influenza can cause severe illness or deaths, especially in people at high risk. In industrialised countries, most deaths associated with influenza occur among people aged 65 years or older. The effects of seasonal influenza epidemics in developing countries are not fully known, but research estimates that 99 per cent of deaths in children under five years of age with influenza-related lower respiratory tract infections are found in developing countries. Epidemics can result in high levels of worker/school absenteeism and productivity losses. Clinics and hospitals can be overwhelmed during peak illness periods.

Influenza viruses are constantly evolving. In India, the most prevalent subtypes are influenza A (H1N1), (H3N2), and influenza B viruses. Every year, there are outbreaks of influenza in India, particularly during winter. Factors like high population density, poor hygiene practices, weather conducive to the survival and spread of the virus and low vaccination rates increase the risk of flu transmission. Extensive epidemiological studies have explored the relationship between seasonal epidemics of respiratory viruses and meteorological factors. Climate change has direct or indirect effects on the occurrence and transmission of viral respiratory infections, including influenza. Due to climate change, seasonal epidemics of influenza may shift spatially and temporally, with rising temperatures and abnormal rainfall patterns being contributing factors. Extreme weather events have the potential to exacerbate risks of influenza and transmission of other respiratory viruses.

Most cases of human influenza are clinically diagnosed. However, during periods of low influenza activity or outside of epidemic situations, the infection of other respiratory viruses (e.g. SARS-CoV-2, rhinovirus, respiratory syncytial virus, parainfluenza and adenovirus) can also present as influenza-like illness (ILI), which makes the clinical differentiation of influenza from other pathogens difficult. In absence of definitive diagnosis and symptoms coinciding with acute respiratory infections, indiscriminate antimicrobial use happens. Acute respiratory infections are the leading cause of outpatient antibiotic prescription, with over 80 per cent receiving antibiotics unnecessarily in Low- or Middle-Income Countries (LMIC), including influenza patients who may not particularly benefit from such treatment. India is already seeing increasing levels of antimicrobial resistance (AMR), according to data published by ICMR and NCDC annually.

The latest report by NCDC also provides substantial evidence of excessive prescription of antimicrobials from the "Watch" category of WHO's AWaRe classification. It is, therefore, necessary to implement interventions that can lead to reduction in opportunities for antimicrobial prescriptions. Flu vaccine shots for the elderly is part of influenza control measures implemented in more than 100 countries, including some LMICs like Mexico, Tajikistan, Vietnam, Malaysia, Thailand, Oman, Philippines and Sri Lanka. This has led to decreased risk of hospitalisation and deaths in elderly population as well as reduction in antimicrobial usage. About a dozen flu vaccines have been approved for use in India, too. The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) recommends annual influenza vaccination for high risk groups, specifically healthcare workers, pregnant women, and people with chronic health conditions. For children below five years and adults over 65 years, the seasonal influenza vaccine has been categorised as "desirable" or lower priority. While MoHFW recommends these vaccines, they do not routinely purchase or provide them for these age groups.

The immunisation programmes in all LMICs are maturing at a rapid speed. Implementation of Covid-19 vaccine programme was the beginning of an adult immunisation programme in India which must be leveraged for making other adult vaccines available in the country. The discussion on the introduction of influenza vaccine into the government's Universal Immunisation Programme is limited by the lack of data on morbidity and mortality caused by influenza in India. For the same reason, strategies for influenza prevention and control have not been prioritised by health societies such as the Indian Medical Association or Indian Academy of Pediatrics. As the country embarks towards universal health coverage and in the wake of recent influenza outbreaks, it is an opportune time for the government to adopt a more preventive approach. The expansion of the immunisation programme to include influenza vaccines needs to be considered as this will not only benefit those vaccinated, it will also reduce community transmission, unnecessary antimicrobial prescriptions and superimposed bacterial infections that can complicate influenza and require antibiotics. This will help augment AMR containment efforts in the country and be both pragmatic and in line with the ongoing pandemic-preparedness efforts.

Loss of a guiding light

Sant Shiromani Acharya Vidhyasagar Maharaj believed that a strong nation is built on foundation of citizens' commitment to their duties

NARENDRA MODI

SANT SHIROMANI ACHARYA Shri 108 Vidhyasagar Ji Maharaj Ji attained samadhi and left us all saddened. His life is a spiritually rich epoch graced with profound wisdom, boundless compassion and an unwavering commitment to uplift humanity. I have had the honour of receiving his blessings on numerous occasions. Thus, I feel a deep sense of loss, akin to losing a guiding light that has illuminated the path for countless souls, including myself. His warmth, affection and blessings were not just gestures of goodwill but profound transmissions of spiritual energy, empowering and inspiring all those fortunate enough to have come in contact with him.

Pujya Acharya Ji will always be remembered as a triveni of wisdom, compassion and service. He was a true tapasvi, whose life epitomised the ideals of Bhagwan Mahavir. His life exemplified the core principles of Jainism, embodying its ideals through his own actions and teachings. His care towards all living beings mirrored Jainism's profound respect for life. He lived a life of truthfulness, reflecting Jainism's emphasis on honesty in thought, word, and deed. He also led a very simple lifestyle.

It is due to stalwarts like him that the world continues to be inspired by Jainism and the life of Bhagwan Mahavir. He stood tall among the Jain community but his impact and influence were not limited to only one community. People across faiths, regions and cultures came to him and he worked tirelessly towards spiritual awakening, particularly among the youth.

Education was an area very close to his heart. His journey from Vidhyadhar (his childhood name) to Vidhyasagar was one of deep commitment to acquiring and imparting knowledge. It was his firm belief that education is the cornerstone of a just and enlightened society. He championed the cause of knowledge as a means to empower individuals, enabling them to lead lives of purpose and contribution. His teachings emphasised the importance of self-study and self-awareness as the pathways to true wisdom, urging his followers to engage in lifelong learning and spiritual growth.

At the same time, Sant Shiromani Acharya Vidhyasagar Ji Maharaj Ji wanted our youngsters to get an education that is also rooted in our cultural ethos. He often said that it was because we drifted away from the learnings of the past that we were not able to find solutions to key challenges like water scarcity. He also believed that a holistic education is one that focuses on skilling and innovating. He took immense pride in India's linguistic diversity and encouraged youngsters to learn Indian languages.

Pujya Acharya Ji himself wrote extensively in Sanskrit, Prakrit and Hindi. The heights he reached as a saint, and how grounded he was on the earth, is seen clearly in his iconic work Mookmati. Through his works, he gave a voice to the downtrodden.

In the domain of healthcare too, Pujya Acharya Ji's contributions were transformative. He was associated with several efforts, especially in underserved areas. His approach to healthcare was holistic, integrating physical well-being with spiritual wellness, thereby addressing the needs of the person as a whole.

I would especially urge the coming generations to study extensively about Sant Shiromani Acharya Shri Vidhyasagar Ji Maharaj Ji's commitment to nation building. He would always urge people to rise above any partisan considerations and instead focus on national interest. He was one of the strongest votaries of voting because he saw it as an expression of participation in democratic processes. He advocated healthy as well as clean politics, even saying that policy-making has to be about people's welfare, not self interest (Lokneeti is about Loksangrah not Lobhsangrah).

He believed that a strong nation is built on the foundation of its citizens' commitment to their duties — towards themselves, their families, society, and the country. He encouraged individuals to cultivate virtues such as honesty, integrity and self-reliance, which he saw as essential for the creation of a just, compassionate and thriving society. This emphasis on duties is of great importance as we work towards building a Viksit Bharat.

In an era where environmental degradation is rampant world over, Pujya Acharya Ji called for a way of life which would minimise the harm being inflicted on nature. Likewise, he saw a paramount role for agriculture in our economy, stressing on making agriculture modern as well as sustainable. His work towards reforming jail inmates was also noteworthy.

The beauty of our land is that for thousands of years, our soil has produced greats who have shown light to others and made our society better. Pujya Acharya Ji stands as a towering figure in this illustrious lineage of saints and social reformers. Whatever he did, he did not just for the present but also the future.

In November last year, I had the opportunity to visit the Chandragiri Jain Mandir in Dongargarh in Chhattisgarh. Little did I know that this visit would be my last meeting with Pujya Acharya Ji. Those moments were very special. He spoke to me for a long time, blessing me for my efforts in serving the nation. He expressed joy on the direction our nation is taking and the respect India is getting on the world stage. He was filled with enthusiasm while talking about the work he was doing. Then and always, his gentle gaze and serene smile were enough to instill a sense of peace and purpose. His blessings felt like a soothing balm on the soul, a reminder of the divine presence within and around us.

Sant Shiromani Acharya Shri 108 Vidhyasagar Ji Maharaj Ji's void is deeply felt by all who knew him and were touched by his teachings and his life. However, he lives on in the hearts and minds of those he inspired. In honouring his memory, we commit to embodying the values he espoused. In this way, we not only pay tribute to a great soul but also take forward his mission for our country and people.

A home too far

To make housing affordable, land markets must be reformed

SHISHIR GUPTA, NANDINI AGNIHOTRI, ANNIE GEORGE

IN HER BUDGET speech on February 1, the Finance Minister mentioned two housing schemes. First, under PMAY-Grameen, "two crore more houses will be taken up in the next five years". Second, the government will launch a scheme to help "sections of the middle class living in rented houses, or slums, or chawls and unauthorised colonies to buy or build their own houses". State intervention in terms of housing subsidies can be justified for economically poor households if the objective is to give them house ownership, since the market can't deliver housing at a price point that they can afford. However, for middle-income groups, the proposed scheme should focus on increasing the affordability of housing, rather than providing subsidies to them since housing is expensive in India.

The government's intent in announcing this housing scheme for the middle class is laudable since access to housing is a prerequisite for a dignified life. According to the latest available Census data of 2011, 17 per cent of all urban households in India live in slums. The situation is especially grave in India's bigger cities — 41 per cent of households in Greater Mumbai, 30 per cent in Kolkata, and 29 per cent in Chennai live in slums. Housing affordability remains elusive, despite attempts by successive governments to address the problem. This begs a fundamental question: How expensive is housing really in India, and why? Answering this will provide clarity on how to tackle this challenge, especially in light of the proposed housing scheme for the middle-class.

Housing in India is indeed expensive relative to its yardstick of affordability. At an average price-to-income ratio (PTI) of 11 — that is, years of income required for an average household to buy a 90 square metre apartment — it is more than twice as expensive as its affordability benchmark of 5. While housing in countries like the US, Australia, and Germany is more affordable, several other countries, especially in the developing world, such as Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and China have PTIs that are worse than India's.

There could be two reasons for high house prices — a runaway increase in prices over time, and/or higher base prices due to structural reasons. We argue in our working paper "House Prices in India: How High, and for How Long?" that the latter is the primary cause of this high house price phenomenon, and hence the resolution will require reforming the land markets. This will improve transparency in the real estate sector, making it more competitive and improving affordability. House prices have appreciated by 9.3 per cent on an annual basis between 1991–2021, which is similar to gold at 9.2 per cent, but lower than the Sensex and nominal income growth at 13.5 per cent and 12.5 per cent respectively. This profile of returns across assets is consistent with that in other countries. Thus, housing in India is not expensive due to a supernormal price increase over the past few decades, and hence it must be due to structural reasons.

Housing affordability moves in tandem with the degree of "transparency" in the real estate industry; one helpful measure of this is the transparency index computed by the real estate consulting firm Jones Lang LaSalle (JLL). The average PTI for countries with a "highly transparent" real estate industry is 8, and 14 for countries with "low transparency". Despite being one of the best improvers in the Asia-Pacific region over the last few years as a result of reforms like RERA and digitisation of land records, India is still ranked within the "semi-transparent" cohort. A key reason for this is the lack of credible and rigorous land use planning and implementation, which leads to constrained and unpredictable supply of land. Only 28 per cent of Indian cities have approved master plans, almost none of which are detailed enough or contain the requisite financing and sequencing for key plan proposals. This absence of granularity and concomitant financing makes it uncertain if the city will actually develop according to the plan and by what timeline. In contrast, Singapore's 40–50 years concept plan is broken down into 20-year, plot-by-plot development plans with identified sequencing of projects and broad financing strategies.

This semi-transparent milieu makes the entry of new real estate developers difficult, giving rise to a less-than-competitive industry structure. Compared to other industries, real estate in India has a significant number of firms making supernormal profits (of more than 20 per cent) in the long run. Since profitability in real estate is driven largely by prices, the ability of some developers to make significantly higher profits must be due to their ability to command a "premium", which could be due to a host of factors like their credibility, reputation, and access to parcels of land with infrastructure connectivity. The advantages from access to good parcels of land become even more critical when land supply is constrained. A less-than-competitive real estate industry operating in a semi-transparent environment also incentivises people, especially those with unaccounted income, to invest in real estate, reinforcing this high price structure. It is not a coincidence that 77 per cent of India's household wealth is stored in real estate compared to 62 per cent for China, 44 per cent for the US, and 37 per cent for Germany.

The first step in improving affordability, thus, is to release land supply in a planned and transparent manner. This will increase competition and put pressure on prices, in turn improving affordability. Not only will this provide a large segment of Indians with access to decent housing, but in the process will also boost GDP growth and create much-needed non-farm employment. Government schemes have usually aimed to make housing affordable by focusing on increasing housing stock through subsidies, rather than addressing the root cause by credibly unlocking land supply. As we embark on a new housing scheme, we would be well-advised to take a holistic view of the issue so the resolution is targeted and efficient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MEET IN THE MIDDLE

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Keep the door open' (IE, February 20). The deadlock between farmers' unions and the government is concerning. The government's proposal for open-ended MSP procurement of pulses, maize, and cotton is a notable opportunity. While the demand for a "legal guarantee" for MSP in all crops may face practical challenges, maintaining open communication is crucial. Addressing farmers' concerns and highlighting the positive impact of open-ended MSP on crop diversification can pave the way for collaboration. As we approach the elections, framing negotiations to prioritise farmers' welfare is imperative.

SAY NO TO WAR

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Cease fire' (IE, February 20). Israel has launched massive attacks in Gaza since October 7, 2023. Over 29,000 Palestinians have reportedly lost their lives. A humanitarian ceasefire must be put in place as stressed by Australia, Canada and India. Hamas supported by Hezbollah and Houthis should also release all hostages immediately. The US, UK and EU must stop supplying war materials to Israel.

Subhash Vaid, New Delhi

A LICENCE TO POLICE

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Neither uniform nor civil' (IE, February 20). The Uniform Civil Code adopted by the Uttarakhand Assembly is flawed on many counts, and in some respects, it is regressive — eliminating existing rights. Many of the provisions are a direct assault on women's sexual autonomy and provide licence for moral policing and vigilantism. It also gives the state the power to interfere in consensual relationships between adults, including on issues of marriage and divorce. The tool at the centre of the Code is criminalisation.

IDEAS LIVE ON

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'A Russian tragedy' (IE, February 20). Alexei Navalny's death in a remote penal colony shows the tragic price of dissent in Vladimir Putin's Russia. It highlights the urgent need for global condemnation of Putin's authoritarianism, and solidarity with the Russian opposition. While the fractured state of the opposition and ongoing conflicts pose challenges, Alexei Navalny's legacy reminds us to continue the good fight for democracy.

Air India Exp launches cabin-bag only fare

SUKALP SHARMA NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

TATA GROUP airline Air India Express on Tuesday announced the introduction of cabin baggage-only fare category "Xpress Lite", marking a fresh attempt after years by an Indian carrier to unbuckle the check-in baggage service for lower fare categories, a prevalent practice among low-cost carriers (LCCs) in various aviation markets, including Europe and Southeast Asia.

"Xpress Lite fares enable guests who prefer travelling without check-in baggage to make the most of fares which are lower than regular fares. Xpress Check-In enables flyers to avoid queues at counters and baggage belts and comes with a complimentary +3 kg cabin baggage allowance in addition to significantly discounted pre-booked prices for +15 kg and +20 kg check-in baggage allowances to ensure the maximum flexibility and convenience for guests booking on Xpress Lite fares," Air India Express said in a statement, adding that this fare category will only be available on the airline's website and mobile application. 'STATE OF THE ECONOMY' ARTICLE PUBLISHED IN THE RBI'S FEB BULLETIN Corporate sector must relieve govt of capex heavy lifting: RBI article

HITESH VYAS MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

THE GROWTH momentum seen in the Indian economy during the first half of financial year 2023-2024 (FY24) continues and the next leg of growth is likely to be fuelled by the capital expenditure from the corporate sector, an article published in the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) monthly bulletin said. Expectations for a fresh round of capex by the corporate sector to take the baton from the government and fuel the next leg of growth are mounting, it added.

"The corporate sector must get its act together to relieve the government of capex heavy lifting and take advantage of the space ceded in financial markets by a lower budgeted borrowing programme and the easing of borrowing costs that has already begun in response to the Interim Budget for 2024-25, driven as it is by capex and consolidation," the 'State of the Economy' article published in the RBI's February bulletin said. In the Interim Budget for

The RBI's survey suggests that investment intentions of private corporates remain upbeat.

2024-25, the government announced a lower market borrowing for FY25 compared to FY24. It announced gross and net market borrowings during the next fiscal of Rs 14.13 lakh crore and Rs 11.75 lakh crore respectively, compared to Rs 15.4 lakh crore and Rs 11.8 lakh crore, respectively during FY24.

"Now that the private investments are happening at scale, the lower borrowings by the central government will facilitate larger availability of credit for the private sector," Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in her Interim Budget 2024-25 speech.

During the February monetary policy announcement, RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das said that the investment cycle is gaining steam, aided by sustained thrust on government capex; increasing capacity utilisation; rising flow of resources to the commercial sector; and policy support from schemes, such as production linked incentive (PLI). Revival in private corporate investment is also underway, he said. The RBI's survey suggests that investment intentions of private corporates remain upbeat and both services and infrastructure firms are optimistic about overall business conditions, Das added. The State of the Economy article has been prepared by RBI Deputy Governor Michael Patra and other central bank officials. The RBI said the views published in the article are of the authors and not of the institution.

The article said that the balance sheets of corporate are healthy on the back of high profits, with leverage remaining constant or improving and the return ratio at a multi-year high. "Overall inflation developments are also turning favourable, providing a stable environment for corporates to plan expansion strategies in anticipation of a pick-up in demand," it said. With consumer price inflation (CPI) coming off its November-December spikes in its January 2024 reading, inflation expectations may stabilise and edge down, although renewed pressures from cereals and proteins cannot be ruled out. Retail inflation, or CPI, eased to a three-month low of 5.1 per cent in January from 5.7 per cent in December. However, it continues to remain above the 4 per cent target of the RBI. Core inflation is at its lowest since October 2019 and non-food wholesale price inflation remains in deflation. This should augur well for the input cost outlook and selling prices of manufacturing firms, the article said. It added the country's economy continues to sustain the momentum achieved in the first half of FY24, going by high growth indicators.

The National Statistical Office (NSO) in its first advance estimate, released in January, projected the country's real gross domestic product (GDP) growth at 7.3 per cent in fiscal 2023-24. The NSO will provide its second advance estimates of national income for 2023-24 and for the third quarter for the first time by the end of this month. Last month's State of the Economy article had projected real GDP growth at 7 per cent for the third quarter of FY2024.

Implicitly, real GDP would have to expand by 7 per cent in the fourth quarter for the annual estimate of 7.3 per cent to be realised, the article said.

Outlook for Indian economy appears bright, 7% GDP growth likely in FY'25: FinMin

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

A HEALTHY Rabi harvest, sustained manufacturing profitability, resilience in services along with an expected improvement in household consumption and private capex cycle are seen supporting economic activity in the coming financial year 2024-25, the Finance Ministry said Tuesday, adding the outlook for the Indian economy appears bright. However, headwinds from geopolitical tensions such as supply chain disruptions and higher logistics costs, volatility in international financial markets, and geoeconomic fragmentation need watching, the ministry said in its monthly economic review for January.

Three successive years of high growth show the resilience of the Indian economy and the bedrock of high growth is strong private consumption. Investment is consolidating in the economy as high public capex crowds in private investment, which is beginning to set up additional plants and acquiring new machinery to address rising capacity utilisation, the report said.

During the current financial year, the Indian economy is estimated to grow at 7.3 per cent. This would be the third year in the row when the GDP would grow in excess of 7 per cent. The Reserve Bank of India has forecast India's GDP growth for FY25 to be 7 per cent. Many global agencies have revised India's growth projection upwards, the report said. This reflects the resilience of the Indian economy to sustain its growth path amidst ongoing geopolitical headwinds, it said, adding, the measures announced in the Interim Union Budget FY25 are expected to play a pivotal role in supporting India's growth journey ahead.

Listing the tailwinds for the next financial year, the ministry said prospects of healthy Rabi harvesting, sustained manufacturing profitability and underlying service resilience are expected to support economic activity in FY25. On the demand side, household consumption is expected to improve, while prospects of fixed investment remain bright owing to an upturn in the private capex cycle, improved business sentiments, healthy balance sheets of banks and corporates, and the government's continued thrust on capital expenditure, it said.

However, headwinds from geopolitical tensions, volatility in international financial markets, and geoeconomic fragmentation need watching, it said. Global slowdown, especially in India's major trading partners, has led to a slowdown in demand for India's merchandise exports. Also, there has been a decline in the overall value of imports due to a fall in international commodity prices, which spiked after the outbreak of the Russia-Ukraine conflict. This has led to a narrowing of India's merchandise trade deficit in the first ten months of FY24, it said.

Outward remittances surge 28% in December

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

OUTWARD REMITTANCES under the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) Liberalised Remittance Scheme (LRS) registered a month-on-month growth of 28 per cent to $2.4 billion in December, mainly on higher spending by Indians during overseas travel.

In the first nine months of financial year 2023-24 (FY24), the total outward remittance was around $25 billion. On a year-on-year basis, outward remittances rose 16 per cent in December 2023. Indians remitted $1.878 billion in November and $2.176 billion during October under LRS, the RBI's recent data showed.

From October 1, banks implemented the government's decision to levy higher Tax Collection at Source (TCS) rates on payments under LRS. The higher TCS rates of up to 20 per cent are applicable on various international spends such as overseas tour packages which include travel related to medical treatment, business, education, pilgrimage, personal gifts and donations, family maintenance and investments. In December, the amount spent by Indians on travelling abroad stood at $1.54 billion. The data showed that travel constituted around 64 per cent of the total outward remittances allowed under LRS for resident individuals in the month. The amount spent by Indians on travelling to overseas destinations stood at $13.4 billion in the first nine months of FY24, the RBI data showed. FULL REPORT ON www.indianexpress.com

'Small scale fishing should be exempted from WTO talks'

RAVIDUTTA MISHRA NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

AHEAD OF the World Trade Organization's (WTO) inter-ministerial meeting in Abu Dhabi later this month, the National Fishworkers' Forum (NFF) has written to the commerce and industry ministry asking it to protect the interest of small fishermen by pushing WTO to keep small scale fishing out of fisheries subsidies negotiations later this month.

Commerce Ministry officials maintain that India will push against any form of curbs on its subsidies to poor fishermen at the WTO and also seek a moratorium on fishing subsidies from advanced countries including the US and EU during the upcoming inter-ministerial.

India will push against any form of curbs on subsidies to poor fishermen.

"India is the only country where small-scale fishers fish in large numbers and we hardly have deep sea fishing. Over 70 per cent of the fishermen are below the poverty line and for us, fishing is a livelihood issue. Fishermen are not responsible for decline in fish. It is because of other factors like industrial pollution, global warming and coastal degradation which has affected the fishers," Olencio Simoes, General-Secretary - National Fishworkers' Forum (NFF) said at a press briefing.

NFF further told the government that there is a need for a robust domestic fisheries policy that aligns with international negotiations and without a cohesive national policy to define small-scale, artisanal and indigenous fish worker rights, their unique characteristics and fishing methods, India's position at the WTO may lack the necessary foundation for effective representation.

"We advocate for a policy like the 'Coastal Rights Bill' that not only protects the interests of the government's goals in sustainability of fish stocks but percolates down to the specific needs of small-scale fisheries (SSF) in India," NFF added.

Ranjan Sengupta, Senior Researcher, Trade Programme of Third World Network (TWN) said that there is no rush to conclude the fisheries subsidies negotiations in MC13, adding most other issues of interest to developing countries and LDCs, for example in agriculture, are not getting any outcome in MC13. A bad outcome can forever jeopardize the future growth potential of their fisheries sector and the possibility of generating livelihoods therefrom, said Sengupta.

The Agreement on Fisheries Subsidies was signed in 2022 at the 12th Ministerial Conference of the WTO, but covered only illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing and overfished stocks - consisting two out of the three pillars under consideration.

India objects China-led IDF proposal

New Delhi: India has opposed efforts by China-led 130 countries to push a proposal on investment facilitation at the WTO on grounds that the agenda falls outside the mandate of the global trade body, a commerce ministry official said on Tuesday.

The official said that the group is pushing for the Investment Facilitation for Development proposal that would be binding on only the signatory members. ENS

Govt cuts import duty on turkeys; exempts long staple cotton from tax

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE UNION government on Tuesday fully exempted customs duty on import of extra long staple cotton, and has cut duties on specified varieties of imported blueberries, cranberries and frozen turkeys. The reduction comes following a recommendation from the Ministry of Commerce and Industry after India and the United States (US) mutually settled seven trade disputes, officials said. Earlier, India has withdrawn additional duties on eight US origin products, including apples, walnuts and almonds following the settlement.

As per the notification, the Finance Ministry slashed import duty on certain items of blueberries and cranberries from 30 per cent to 10 per cent in some cases and 5 per cent in other cases. Import duty on meat and edible offal of turkeys, were also reduced from 30 per cent to 5 per cent, effective Tuesday.

"Reduction of the duty on these niche items rarely produced in India would help the USA in penetrating the Indian market, and also in bringing the prices of these products down in India. This move shall also benefit other nations forming part of WTO," Khushbu Trivedi, Associate Director- Indirect Tax, Nangia Andersen India.

The notification has also reduced the import duty to 'NIL' on 'Cotton, not carded or combed, with staple length exceeding 32mm.' This has been done in response to the concerns raised by the cotton industry. "This decision reflects a proactive approach by the government to address industry feedback and adapt import regulations accordingly, potentially benefiting stakeholders involved in the cotton sector," Trivedi said.

During PM Modi's visit to the US in June last year, the India and the US had announced ending of six trade disputes at the WTO and India's removal of tariffs on certain US products including chickpeas, lentils, almonds, walnuts, apples, boric acid, and diagnostic reagents. Later in September last year, both countries settled the last case on poultry. FULL REPORT ON www.indianexpress.com

"We are aware of some of the information that is being claimed to have been compromised. The CERT-In is currently investigating the claims," said a senior IT Ministry official. So far the organisation has not made a headway, it is understood. The IT Ministry did not respond to an immediate request for comment. US vetoes UN resolution demanding Gaza ceasefire

YOSHITA SINGH
UNITED NATIONS, FEB 20

THE UN Security Council Tuesday failed to adopt a resolution calling for a humanitarian ceasefire in the Israel-Hamas war after a veto by the US.

The 15-nation Council met Tuesday to vote on the latest resolution in the Israel-Hamas conflict that was put forward by Algeria on behalf of Arab States. The resolution demanded "an immediate humanitarian ceasefire that must be respected by all parties". The resolution got 13 votes in favour and an abstention by the UK but could not be adopted since the US voted against the draft by casting its veto.

Commenting on the Algerian-proposed draft resolution on the situation in the Middle East ahead of the vote, US Ambassador to the UN Linda Thomas-Greenfield said that Washington is "working on a hostage deal between Israel and Hamas, which would bring an immediate and sustained period of calm to Gaza for at least six weeks, and from which we could then take the time and the steps to build a more enduring peace." She had said that the deal represented the "best opportunity" to reunite all hostages with their families and enable a prolonged pause in fighting, that would allow for more lifesaving food, water, fuel, medicine, and other essentials to get into the hands of Palestinian civilians.

"The resolution put forward in the Security Council, in contrast, would not achieve these outcomes, and indeed, may run counter to them. We have communicated this concern repeatedly to our colleagues on the Council. For that reason, the United States does not support action on this draft resolution. Should it come up for a vote as drafted, it will not be adopted," Thomas-Greenfield said.

This is the third time since the October 7 Hamas attacks that the US has vetoed a resolution on Gaza in the Security Council. PTI

Taiwan drives away Chinese coast guard boat as tensions rise

REUTERS
TAIPEI, FEBRUARY 20

TAIWAN TUESDAY drove away a Chinese coast guard boat that entered waters near its sensitive frontline islands, in a rise in tensions a day after China's coast guard boarded a Taiwanese tourist boat that a Taiwan minister said has triggered "panic".

A Chinese coast guard boat, numbered 8029, entered Taiwan's waters near Kinmen on Tuesday morning, Taiwan's coast guard said in a statement, adding it dispatched a boat and used radio and broadcast to drive away its Chinese counterpart, which left the area an hour later.

Taiwan's coast guard said it will continue to use radar, surveillance and patrols to ensure the "harmony and safety" near the waters of Taiwan-controlled Kinmen islands, which are close to China's shores. Taiwan, which China claims as its own territory, has been wary of efforts by Beijing to ramp up pressure on Taipei following the election last month of Lai Ching-te as president, a man Beijing views as a dangerous separatist.

Stalemate continues as Nawaz, Bilawal parties fail to strike power deal

PPP is reportedly asking for posts of President, Senate chairman, Speaker of National Assembly

Bilawal Zardari-Bhutto

SAJJAD HUSSAIN
ISLAMABAD, FEBRUARY 20

THERE WAS no progress in the formation of a new coalition government in Pakistan Tuesday as top leaders of the PML-N and the PPP failed to agree on a power-sharing deal in their latest round of talks, indicating deepening fissures in the country's political landscape.

The fifth round of the meeting, held at the residence of Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) senior leader Senator Ishaq Dar here on Monday, saw the participation of prominent leaders from both parties, who have pledged to work together in the interest of the cash-strapped country.

The Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) delegation comprised senior leaders Murad Ali Shah, Qamar Zaman Kaira, Nadeem Afzal Chan, and others, the Express Tribune newspaper reported on Tuesday.

After a three-hour deliberation on Monday, the negotiation hit a snag prompting a temporary halt, with both PML-N and PPP agreeing to reconvene at 10 pm on Monday. However, the meeting did not take place.

Eventually, at 11 pm, the PML-N concluded their meeting, announcing that discussions with PPP would resume on Wednesday. In an informal conversation with reporters after the first round of the meeting, PML-N leader Azam Nazir Tarar conveyed a positive trajectory in the ongoing discussions.

"Some things have already been decided on the matter of PPP's inclusion in the cabinet," Tarar was quoted as saying by Geo News. The PPP is reportedly asking for key constitutional positions of President, Chairman Senate, and Speaker of the National Assembly for its support to former prime minister Nawaz Sharif's PML-N.

Sources said PPP Chairman Bilawal Zardari-Bhutto was playing smartly and trying to bring PML-N to a point where it withdrew from making a coalition government and then launching himself as prime minister and form a government with the support of independents of PTI who have now joined the Sunni Ittehad Council. But it will not be easy for the 35-year-old former foreign minister as PTI party has already rejected the possibility of supporting the PPP.

Bilawal on Tuesday said he foresees a "stalemate" in the formation of a coalition government "if someone is not ready to change their stance". "If I want to give the PML-N a vote, I will have to give it on my terms and not theirs," he told reporters. The Parliament should meet for its maiden session by February 29. PTI

Russian pilot who defected to Ukraine shot dead in Spain; Kremlin calls him moral corpse

REUTERS
MOSCOW, FEBRUARY 20

RUSSIAN EMIGRES in Spain critical of the Kremlin called on the Spanish authorities on Tuesday to better protect them, after a Russian pilot who had defected to Ukraine was found shot dead in a garage in a town on Spain's Mediterranean coast.

Ukraine's GUR military spy service has confirmed that pilot Maxim Kuzminov, who flew to Ukraine with his Mi-8 helicopter last August, has died in Spain.

The head of Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service, Sergei Naryshkin, said: "This traitor and criminal became a moral corpse at the very moment he planned his dirty and terrible crime."

Spanish government spokesperson said Civil police was conducting a murder investigation in Villajoyosa.

Kuzminov's defection to Ukraine was presented last year as a major coup for Kyiv. In Kyiv, he said he could not understand why his "beloved motherland" would enter into a war with Ukraine. Other members of the air crew died during his defection. Moscow said Kuzminov killed them; he said they panicked and fled, and may have been killed subsequently.

Assange targeted by US, Trump over WikiLeaks exposures, lawyer says

REUTERS
LONDON, FEBRUARY 20

WIKILEAKS FOUNDER Julian Assange was targeted by the US over his exposure of state-level crimes, and Donald Trump had requested options on how to deal with him, his lawyers said on Tuesday as they battle to stop his extradition from Britain.

US prosecutors are seeking to put Assange, 52, on trial on 18 counts relating to WikiLeaks' high-profile release of vast troves of confidential US military records and diplomatic cables.

They argue the leaks imperilled the lives of their agents and there is no excuse for his criminality. Assange's supporters hail him as an anti-establishment hero and a journalist, who is being persecuted for exposing US wrongdoings.

At the start of what could be his last chance to stop his extradition from Britain to the United States at London's High Court, Assange's lawyers and wife said the case was politically motivated and an attack on all journalists. Stella Assange likened his case to that of Alexei Navalny, the Russian opposition activist who died in prison on Friday while serving a three-decade sentence.

"Julian is a political prisoner and his life is at risk. What happened to Navalny can happen to Julian," she told reporters outside court where a large crowd called for his release. Assange himself was not in court nor watching remotely because he was unwell. The Australian's legal battles began in 2010, and he subsequently spent seven years holed up in Ecuador's embassy in London before he was dragged out and jailed in 2019.

A Traveler's Needs: Sang-soo's woman of mystery

EXPRESS AT BERLINALE

SHUBHRA GUPTA
FEBRUARY 20

HONG SANG-SOO is such a Berlinale favourite that if there isn't a film by him in the programme, you feel something essential is missing. 'A Traveler's Needs' is his seventh entry in the 74th Berlin International Film Festival competition, his fifth film in the last five years, and his third outing with Isabelle Huppert.

Huppert plays a French woman in Seoul, looking for a means to make a living. She seems to appear out of thin air, perfectly formed, sitting on a park bench, looking around her as if she's always been there. Backstories do not usually disturb Sang-soo's ability to create slices of lives, which pulsate with meaning, and Huppert's elusive quicksilver quality fits in with the director's refusal to say first this happened, and then that, and so on.

But with this one, the law of diminishing returns seems to have set in. Wanting to teach French to well-to-do Korean families is fine, but not knowing quite how she will go about it — of course Huppert's Iris isn't a trained teacher, that would be far too prosaic for a Sang-soo movie — feels like a stretch.

Is she a flirty type, giggling in a high-pitch at the husband, when the wife is out of the frame? Or is it a tic to overcome nervousness in a woman who seems to be making up things as she goes along, throwing back glassfuls of makgeolli, a potent Korean rice wine drink of makgeolli, like a proper little lush?

In a nice by-play of spousal shorthand, the wife signals to the husband that she isn't very impressed with the teaching methods on display. Earlier, we've seen Iris trying to draw out a pretty, poised piano player about how she feels about playing the instrument, and giving her the French equivalent of those sentiments to repeat as a way of learning.

Only one woman, the concerned mother of the young man whose flat Iris has been sharing for the past two months, asks the tough questions. Who is Iris? Where has she come from? Huppert disappears from view, and apparates in a park, smiling. There's no way that we can stop ourselves from responding, not at the lovely Huppert, but the smile is wiped off pretty soon, left as we are with slender leavings.

'Matt and Mara'

Building lives out of conversations which seems to have been picked up mid-flow is done beautifully in Matt and Mara, by Canadian director Kazik Radwanski, which played at Berlinale's Encounters section. Mara (Deragh Campbell) is in a rocky place in her marriage with experimental musician Samir (Mounir AlShami), the intimacy having clearly worn off in the middle of trying to keep her job as teacher going, with the husband being a stay-at-home dad to their baby.

At work, she spends her time hand-holding potential writers as they spill their callow dreams. At home, it's the daily drudgery of domesticity. Old acquaintance-and-more Matt (Matt Johnson) shows up just at the right time. She is ripe for some excitement, and he brings the carefree air of someone who has only himself to take care of, back into her life again. They meet in a cafe, laugh at nothing and everything, and talk, talk, talk. The giddiness of being able to talk to another human deeply is infectious: you want to instantly hit the call button, and do the same thing.

A literary meet — an event where people go only to hook-up, her friend tells Mara — becomes the site where these two circle around each other, to see if they can go further. But then something happens, and the film comes to a standstill in a place fortunate people find themselves if they've had a chance to do some growing up. Feckless charmers are all very well for a bit of dalliance, but permanence, whatever that might be, is not made of these.

BRUTAL PRISON CONDITIONS TOOK A TOLL ON HIS BODY, BUT NAVALNY DIDN'T LOSE HIS CLARITY OF MIND, HIS WRITINGS SHOW

44 books, refining agenda: Alexei Navalny's final months, in his own words

ANTON TROIANOVSKI
BERLIN, FEBRUARY 20

CONFINED TO cold, concrete cells and often alone with his books, Alexei Navalny sought solace in letters. To one acquaintance, he wrote in July that no one could understand Russian prison life "without having been here," adding in his deadpan humor: "But there's no need to be here."

"If they're told to feed you caviar tomorrow, they'll feed you caviar," Navalny, the Russian opposition leader, wrote to the same acquaintance, Ilya Krasilschik, in August. "If they're told to strangle you in cell, they'll strangle you."

Many details about his last months — as well as the circumstances of his death — remain unknown; even the whereabouts of his body are unclear. But his final months of life are detailed in previous statements from him and his aides, his appearances in court, interviews with people close to him and excerpts from private letters that several friends, including Krasilschik, shared with The New York Times.

Even as brutal prison conditions took their toll on his body — he was often denied medical and dental treatment — there was no hint that Navalny had lost his clarity of mind, his writings show. He boasted of reading 44 books in English in a year and was methodically preparing for the future: refining his agenda, studying political memoirs, arguing with journalists, dispensing career advice to friends and opining on virtual social media posts that his team sent him.

In his public messages, Navalny, called his jailing since January 2021 his "space voyage." By fall of 2023, he was more alone than ever, forced to spend much of his time in solitary confinement and left without three of his lawyers, who were arrested for participation in an "extremist group." Still, he kept up with current events. To a friend, Russian photographer Evgeny Feldman, Navalny confided that the electoral agenda of former US President Donald Trump looked "really scary." "Trump will become president" should President Joe Biden's health suffer, Navalny wrote from his high-security prison cell. "Doesn't this obvious thing concern the Democrats?"

A Public Life

Navalny was able to send hundreds of handwritten letters, thanks to the curious digitalisation of the Russian prison system. Through a website, people could write to him for 40 cents a page and receive scans of his responses, typically a week or two after he sent them and after they passed through a censor. Navalny also communicated with the outside world through his lawyers, who held up documents against the window separating them after they were barred from passing papers. At one point, Navalny reported in 2022, prison officers covered the window in foil.

Then there were his frequent court hearings on new criminal cases brought by the state to extend his imprisonment or on complaints that Navalny filed about his treatment. Navalny told Krasilschik, a media entrepreneur now in exile in Berlin, that he enjoyed those hearings, despite the rubber-stamp nature of Russia's judicial system.

The court appearances also provided him an opportunity to show his contempt for the system. In July, at the conclusion of a trial that resulted in another 19-year sentence, Navalny told the judge and officers in the courtroom they were "crazy." "You have one, God-given life, and this is what you choose to spend it on?" he said, according to text of the speech published by his team.

In one of his last hearings, by video link in January, Navalny argued for the right to longer meal breaks to consume the "two mugs of boiling water and two pieces of disgusting bread" to which he was entitled.

Books appeared to be at the center of Navalny's prison life, all the way until his death.

In a letter in April 2023 to Krasilschik, Navalny explained that he preferred to be reading 10 books simultaneously. NYT

Art 142, why SC quashed Chandigarh mayor election, why it matters

HINA ROHTAKI & ANANTHAKRISHNAN G
 CHANDIGARH, NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE SUPREME Court has quashed the result of the January 30 election for the Mayor of Chandigarh after finding that presiding officer Anil Masih had deliberately invalidated eight ballots cast in favour of the AAP-Congress candidate Kuldeep Kumar 'Tita'.

The Bench, comprising Chief Justice of India (CJI) D Y Chandrachud and Justices J B Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, set aside the result as "contrary to law" and declared Kuldeep Kumar the "validly elected candidate", but refused to quash the election process itself.

On what grounds did the Supreme Court strike down the result?
 The court used its power under Article

142 of the Constitution to do "complete justice" and protect the sanctity of electoral democracy. "Allowing such a state of affairs... would be destructive of the most valued principles on which the entire edifice of democracy in our country depends," it said.

The Bench said it was evident that "while the petitioner is reflected to have polled 12 votes, the eight votes which are treated as invalid were wrongly treated to be so", and "each of those... invalid votes were in fact validly cast... in favour of the petitioner".

It follows that Kuldeep Kumar had in fact got 20 votes, while Manoj Sonkar, the BJP candidate, had won 16. "We accordingly order and direct that the result of the election as declared by the presiding officer shall stand quashed and set aside," the court said.

Sonkar had resigned from his post on Sunday, ahead of the court's verdict passed on Tuesday.

Why was this election important?
 The powers of the Mayor of Chandigarh Municipal Corporation are limited to calling meetings and deciding the agenda. Although the corporation has a five-year term, the Mayor is elected for only one year. The post is reserved for a woman candidate in the first and fourth year of each corporation. The last election to the corporation was held in 2021.

This year's election was politically significant because it saw an alliance, for the first time, between the AAP and Congress against the BJP, setting the stage for potential alliances for the Lok Sabha elections. The parties have been in talks for a seat-sharing deal in Delhi, even though they have decided to contest separately in Punjab.

What was the situation before the polls?
 The elections were initially scheduled for January 18, but when AAP and Congress councillors reached the venue, they were told voting had been postponed as presiding officer Masih had taken ill. The Union Territory Administration wanted to hold the election on February 6, but Kuldeep Kumar approached the Punjab and Haryana High Court, which ordered the election to be held on January 30.

Ahead of the election, AAP had 13 councillors and the Congress 7, which gave the alliance a clear advantage in the 36-member House. The BJP had 15 votes — 14 of its councillors, plus the vote of its Chandigarh Lok Sabha MP (who has a vote under the rules) Kirron Kher. One councillor belongs to the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD). The BJP said it had this councillor's support and, therefore, 16 votes in all.

On election day, after presiding officer Masih rejected eight votes of the AAP-Congress as invalid, the BJP's Sonkar was declared elected.

What happened after the election?
 After videos showed Masih marking ballot papers so they could be declared invalid, Kuldeep Kumar moved the High Court and then the Supreme Court.

On February 5, CJI Chandrachud observed that it was obvious that Masih had defaced the ballots, and that "this man has to be prosecuted". The court said it was "appalled" at the "mockery" and "murder" of democracy, and summoned Masih on January 19.

On Tuesday, the court said that "the presiding officer has evidently put his own mark on the bottom half of the ballot for the purpose of creating a ground for treating the ballot to have been invalidly cast... so as to secure a result... by which the eighth respondent (Sonkar) would be declared... elected".

It said that Masih's conduct has to be deprecated because, "firstly... he has unlawfully altered the course of the Mayoral election" and, "secondly, [by] making a solemn statement before this court on February 19, [he] has expressed a patent falsehood for which he must be held accountable".

Masih had told the court on Monday that he had marked the ballot papers that were already defaced, in order to avoid mixing them up with other ballots. On Tuesday, the court directed that a show cause notice be served on him.

Meanwhile, three AAP councillors joined the BJP on Sunday. Had the court ordered a fresh election instead of merely quashing the result, the AAP-Congress tally would have fallen to 17 from 20, while the BJP's votes would have risen to 19 (including the SAD councillor's vote), giving the party the majority (along with MP Kher's vote) of the 36 ballots that would be cast. Unlike in elections for Parliament or state Assemblies, there is no anti-defection law in municipal elections.

FINALLY A CHIP FABRICATION PLANT IN INDIA? THE PROGRESS SO FAR

SOUMYARENDRA BARIK
 NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

UNION MINISTER of State for Electronics and IT Rajeve Chandrasekhar recently confirmed that the Tata Group and Israeli chip company Tower Semiconductor have applied to set up foundries in the country.

If the proposals are cleared by the government's India Semiconductor Mission (ISM), it could pave the way for the country to finally have a fabrication plant after decades of failed attempts. Aside from boosting domestic job prospects, it will also offer India leverage in the international chip wars, so far shaped by China and the United States.

India is competing with some of its key allies — the US and Europe — to attract chipmakers, and is offering a 50 per cent capital expenditure subsidy to successful applicants at the central level under its $10 billion incentive scheme. State governments can sweeten the deal further at their end.

Proposals on the table

India's chip incentive scheme broadly covers three aspects of the ecosystem — full-blown foundries that can manufacture chips; packaging plants called ATMP facilities; and assembly and testing projects called OSAT plants. So far, US-based Micron Technology has clearance for its proposal to set up a $2.75-billion ATMP plant in Gujarat.

In the foundry space, Chandrasekhar said the Tata Group and Tower Semiconductor have sent separate proposals.

The Indian Express had earlier reported about Tower's proposal to set up a plant worth $8 billion, where it aims to produce 65 nm, 40 nm and 28 nm chips. The Tata Group is understood to be partnering with Taiwan-based United Microelectronics Corporation (UMC) or the Powerchip Semiconductor Manufacturing Corporation (PSMC). Chandrasekhar said that the collective value of the proposals is $22 billion.

In the OSAT space, CG Power and Industrial Solutions has said it has entered into a joint venture (JV) agreement with Renesas Electronics America and Thailand-based Stars Microelectronics to set up a semiconductor assembly and testing plant in India. Kaynes Technology has also sent a proposal to set up an OSAT plant.

The Tata Group is understood to have also applied for an ATMP plant. Apart from that, HCL is learnt to have partnered with Foxconn in its application for setting up a similar plant.

Earlier plans

A joint venture between Foxconn, best known as the manufacturer of iPhones, and Vedanta to set up a $19.5-billion chip plant came to an abrupt halt last year. Foxconn announced it was pulling out of the joint venture. While government sources maintain the two could apply separately, there has been no movement so far.

Tower had earlier applied under the scheme to set up a $3-billion plant in Karnataka in partnership with the international consortium ISMC. However, the plan got stuck due to the company's then impending merger with Intel. Last August, Intel cancelled its plan to acquire Tower Semiconductor for $5.4 billion due to regulatory issues in China.

There was a third proposal by Singapore-based IGSS Venture, but it was not found up to the mark by the advisory committee of the government.

Defining forests, saving them

The Supreme Court has said that 'forests' should be defined in accordance with a judgment it passed in 1996. This assertion questions the government's argument for amending the Forest Conservation Act

JAY MAZOOMDAAR

THE SUPREME Court has directed governments to follow the "broad and all-encompassing" definition of forest as laid down in its 1996 judgment in the T N Godavarman case until a consolidated record of all kinds of forests across the country is prepared.

A three-judge Bench led by Chief Justice of India (CJI) D Y Chandrachud passed the order on Monday (February 19) on petitions that challenged the 2023 amendments to the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 (FCA) on the ground that the modifications had "substantially diluted" the definition of forest, and had reduced the ambit of the Act.

Why was the FCA amended in 2023?

In the Statement of Objects and Reasons for the The Forest (Conservation) Amendment Bill, 2023, passed by both Houses in July-August last year, the government said that the applicability of the FCA had been widened by the judgment of the Supreme Court in T N Godavarman Thirumalpad v. Union of India (December 12, 1996).

"Subsequent to the said Judgment, the provisions of the Act were applied in... recorded forests which had already been put to various type of non-forestry use, thereby restraining the authorities from undertaking any change in the land use and allowing any development or utility related work," the Statement of Objects and Reasons said.

Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav told Parliament that the amendments were necessary to remove ambiguities created by the judgment, which had made the FCA applicable to all areas that resembled the dictionary meaning of 'forest'.

As a remedy, the amendment made the FCA applicable only to notified forests and lands that were identified as 'forest' in government records.

How exactly did the Supreme Court define forest for the purposes of the Act?

The court ruled that the FCA would apply to all land parcels that were either recorded as 'forest', or which resembled the dictionary meaning of forest.

The 1996 judgment by Justice J S Verma and Justice B N Kirpal said: "The word 'forest' must be understood according to its diction-

Manas National Park, Assam: According to the biennial India State of Forest Report, the Northeast has seen the biggest loss of forests in recent years. Ramki Sreenivasan ary meaning. This description covers all statutorily recognised forests, whether designated as reserved, protected or otherwise... The term 'forest land' will not only include 'forests' as understood in the dictionary sense, but also any area recorded as forest in the Government record irrespective of the ownership."

The CJI-led three-judge Bench reaffirmed this principle on Monday, saying that the dictionary meaning of forests had been adopted by the court to align with Parliament's intent behind legislating the FCA in 1980.

To what extent did the SC's 1996 judgment really expand the ambit of the FCA, 1980?

The declared intent of the 2023 amendment was to correct the situation arising out of the perceived expansion of the FCA's applicability by the SC. However, under sub-sections (ii), (iii), and (iv) of Section 2 ("Restriction on the desreservation of forests or use of forest land for non-forest purpose") of the FCA, the ambit of the law is not limited to only "reserved forest" — it bars the unauthorised non-forest use of any forest land.

In the FCA, the term "reserved forest" is used only in the limited context of desreservation. Section 2(i) says that no reserve forest "shall cease to be reserved" without prior approval from the Centre. Clearly, a clause on desreservation can only apply to what is reserved.

This principle was reiterated by the Supreme Court in July 2022 in Narinder Singh & Ors vs Divesh Bhutani & Ors. "As clause (i) specifically refers to a reserved forest... it is obvious that clauses (ii), (iii) & (iv) apply to any other forest... Therefore, forest as understood by its dictionary meaning is covered by Section 2" of the FC Act itself, a three-judge Bench of Justice CT Ravikumar, Justice Abhay S Oka, and Justice A M Khanwilkar ruled.

While the Ministry has repeatedly denied any attempt to dilute the FCA, it did, in fact, drop the most radical amendment it had proposed to strengthen the Act in a Consultation Paper in October 2021.

"Ministry is considering introducing an enabling provision in the Act to keep certain pristine forests showcasing rich ecological values intact for a specific period," it had said. This was because "there are no provisions in the Act for prohibiting non-forestry use of certain areas which require a higher degree of protection due to their uniqueness and high landscape integrated value."

This potentially landmark pro-conservation measure was, however, not a part of The Forest (Conservation) Amendment Bill 2023.

What about the argument that after the 1996 judgment, the FCA was impeding the government's welfare agenda?

The government had justified the 2023 amendments as a means to address the development needs of forest-dwelling tribes. "Today, this (the FCA) comes in the way of building even toilets in schools for tribal girls," Minister Yadav said in Parliament.

However, the basic development needs of tribal communities are covered under Section 3 of the Forest Rights Act, 2006, that requires the Centre to divert forest land "notwithstanding anything contained in the FC Act" for certain facilities managed by the government.

An amendment to the FCA would not have been necessary only to build these facilities — such as schools, dispensaries/hospitals, anganwadis, ration shops, power/phone lines, tanks, water pipelines, minor irrigation canals, vocational training centres, roads, community centres, etc.

Who challenged the 2023 amendments to the law, and on what grounds?

The challenge (Ashok Kumar Sharma, IFS (Retd) & Ors v. Union of India & Ors) was filed by a group of retired Indian Forest Service officers and NGOs such as Vanashakti and Goa Foundation.

The petitions echoed some of the concerns raised by the dissenting members of the Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) that had examined the amendments. The major apprehension was the potential exclusion of 28% of India's forests that lie outside Recorded Forest Areas from the purview of the FC Act.

The Ministry had assured the JPC that the amended FCA would still apply to all unclassified forests, forests that were "proposed to be notified", land recorded as forest by even local bodies, and forest-like areas identified by the expert committees set up in pursuance of the 1996 SC order. It had reiterated this stand before the SC in the present case.

The petitioners argued that pending finalisation of the consolidated record of forests — required to be completed within one year under the amended 2023 Rules — land parcels that would have been considered forests under the 1996 judgment could now be used for non-forest purposes without requiring any clearance under the FCA.

At this, the SC explicitly asked its 1996 definition to be followed until the consolidated record of forests was finalised.

What happens now?

States and Union Territories have until March 31 to submit comprehensive records of forests identified by the expert committees constituted as per the 1996 judgment. The Ministry will have to publish this data on its website by April 15.

The Supreme Court said that while the expert committees set up under the 2023 Rules should take into account the progress made by the previous expert panels, they are free to expand the protection umbrella to any forest land that is worth protecting.

The matter will be heard for final disposal in July.

Yale varsity apologises for slavery links: India connection of its benefactor

ARJUN SENGUPTA
 NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 20

THE USA'S Yale University on February 16 issued a formal apology for its historical association with slavery. "Today... we recognise our university's historical role in and associations with slavery... and we apologise for the ways that Yale's leaders, over the course of our early history, participated in slavery," it said in a statement.

This came alongside the publication of Yale and Slavery: A History, a comprehensive account of Yale's past, authored by David W Blight along with the Yale and Slavery Research Project.

Among other things, the book talks about the Indian connection of Elihu Yale (1649-1721), after whom the university is named. Yale spent over a quarter of a century in India, mainly in Madras (now Chennai), where he made a considerable fortune from activities including slave trade.

Massachusetts to Madras

Elihu Yale was born in 1649, in Boston, Massachusetts, into a wealthy merchant family. When he was three, his family moved to Britain.

In 1672, Yale arrived in Madras as a junior employee of the East India Company, and ultimately became the governor-president of Madras from 1684-85, and again from 1687-92.

Involvement in slave trade

The East India Company during Yale's time conducted an enormous amount of commerce from Madras. Apart from trade in spices and textiles, the Company also engaged in the sale and purchase of human beings. Yale "oversaw many sales, adjudications, and accountings of enslaved people for the East India Company" (Yale and Slavery: A History). According to historian

Joseph Yannielli, "in the 1680s, when Yale served on the governing council at Fort St George... a devastating famine led to an uptick in the local slave trade... Yale and other company officials took advantage of the labor surplus, buying hundreds of slaves and shipping them to the English colony on Saint Helena." (Elihu Yale Was a Slave Trader in Digital Histories @ Yale, 2014).

How many slaves Yale personally owned (and sold) is not known. But, as Blight writes, "There can be no question that some portion of Yale's considerable fortune, amassed while British governor-president in Madras, derived from his myriad entanglements with the purchase and sale of human beings."

The 'enslaved child' painting

A telling piece of evidence linking Yale and slavery is a now-infamous painting, donated to the Yale Center for British Art (YBCA) in 1970. It shows four white men, with Yale at the centre, posing around a table. In the right corner of the canvas is a child pouring wine for the group. Of African or Indian descent (there is some debate about this), the child wears a silver collar, indicating enslavement.

Benefactor of college

Yale was removed from the governor's post in 1692 due to allegations of embezzlement and came back to England in 1699.

Upon his return, he was one of England's richest men, and became the biggest benefactor of the Collegiate School in New Haven, Connecticut. The school had been established in 1701, but had struggled for funds till Yale entered the scene. Between 1713 and 1721, he sent hundreds of books, a portrait of King George I, and other merchandise to support the Collegiate School. These commodities were sold and the proceeds put into the building of the college house.

Blight wrote: "In honour of Yale's contributions, and to entice him into additional donations, the Collegiate School constructed a building called Yale College [in 1718]."

CALVIN & HOBBES by Bill Watterson

MARVIN by Tom Armstrong

DAY TODAY

BY PETER VIDAL

- ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
Mars, planet of energy, is now lifting you out of a rather stale period and recharging your batteries. It's your mind which is about to benefit from all that celestial activation, and very soon ideas will be flowing thick and fast. Try them out on friends to see they go.
- LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)
You do tend to be a little over-concerned with appearances, but during the next week or so you will begin to be surprisingly disinterested in others' attitudes and opinions. You will discover that life can be so much more relaxing.
- TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
Today's dynamic alignments will not go unnoticed. The point, though, is that any emotional hurricanes are likely to completely pass you by, hitting friends, colleagues and acquaintances instead. One word of caution, and that is to be very careful in your dealings with authority.
- SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 23)
Over the past few weeks you appear to have veered between self-doubt on the one hand and a deep belief in your own destiny on the other. Now you'll have the chance to find stability in the company of sensible people, but that might mean considering options you'd always turned down.
- GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You appear to be even more perceptive at the moment, partly because of intense alignments emanating from emotional regions of your chart. Just see to it that any professional contacts are not knocked off balance by impetuous or impulsive people, or by your own impatience.
- SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24 - Dec 22)
A lot of troubled waters have passed under the bridge in the past. However, as far as your worldly ambitions are concerned, the position is looking bright. Imminent events at work follow on from good fortune as far back as ten years ago.
- CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
So much depends on your ability to handle facts. You see, if you resort to the normal emotional stereotype, you can set out to charm the opposite sex, but you won't win respect. If you challenge other people's image of you and surprise them, they may admire you.
- CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)
After a lot of trials and tribulations, the next six months could be a relatively pleasant time for most of you. As from now, you should start to consolidate all your gains, however small and apparently insignificant. You should also see to it that all outstanding emotional business is dealt with.
- LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)
The best planetary aspects now relate to financial interests, but you must stifle any tendency to leap ahead without considering the consequences. Generous gestures are fine if you expect nothing in return, otherwise direct your efforts in other places.
- AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)
Stick up for yourself and don't allow others' lack of faith or imagination to dim your vision of the future. You have no reason to feel that just because partners don't understand you, you have to rein yourself in. It's time to plough your own furrow, to do your own thing.
- Virgo (Aug 24 - Sep 23)
In so many ways you set up difficulties for yourself. It's in your nature to seek the rocky road and to refuse offers of assistance. If I were you, though, I'd look around for sources of support, mainly from anyone who can help you understand your conflicting emotions.
- PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)
A major upheaval or alteration in the working pattern of your life is likely to take place now that Mars is sweeping through such an important area of your chart. But in this, as in all things, the cause is likely to come from where you least expect it.

INTERVIEW: MANOJ TIWARY ON RANJI TROPHY

'Some umpires nurse hangover one said he prefers whisky on rocks'

DEVENDRA PANDEY
MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

MANOJ TIWARY, a pillar of Bengal cricket and with over 10,000 First-class runs under his belt, retired last week. A week before he hung up his boots, Tiwary posted on X that there were 'so many things wrong' in Ranji Trophy cricket, the country's premier domestic tournament. "It is losing its charm and importance. Absolutely frustrated." Tiwary, a Trinamool Congress politician and the Bengal sports minister, spoke to The Indian Express about why he ranted; from hungover umpires to IPL-contracted players not ready to grind it out in domestic cricket. Excerpts.

You had recently posted on X that Ranji Trophy should be 'scrapped off from the calendar' Why?

It is based on what I witnessed while playing. The significance and charm of Ranji Trophy has diminished because the IPL auction happens before the tournament. Once a player gets an IPL contract, they don't have the drive to play Ranji Trophy. There is also the fear that an injury during a Ranji Trophy game, could affect the IPL contract. I think domestic cricket needs 'servicing' now.

Do you think those with IPL contracts don't take Ranji Trophy seriously enough?

Players don't play with seriousness after that (getting an IPL contract). When we started playing domestic cricket, we were told to play with seriousness, be determined and aim to be a match-winner. I don't see that hunger in domestic cricket anymore. Players picked for IPL, they come and play only one way. I'm not saying it's bad but it's similar style. Ranji Trophy is the tournament, which can produce cricketers who are ready for Test cricket. IPL can teach a player about 'intent' but carelessness also creeps in as players are trying to score off everyball.

You also spoke about scheduling issues.

India A matches should not be scheduled at the same time as Ranji Trophy games. Time and effort goes into preparing a team for a Ranji Trophy season. And then three to four players from that team are called up for India A duty. In our team (Bengal), the top two players were representing India A and one was on India duty.

What about matches held in winter in North India?

In North Zone and East Zone there is fog and playing matches at that time has resulted in draws and teams having to split

Manoj Tiwary batting during his last First-class game against Bihar at Eden Gardens. Tiwary played 148 FC matches and scored 10195 runs. PTI

Many times I have seen umpires walking out to the middle while still nursing a hangover. The umpires have looked sleepy. How can he function properly in such a situation? I asked, 'Sir kya liye tha kal raat mein?' (Sir, what did you drink last night?). The reply was: I prefer whisky on the rocks.'

points. It affects a team's position on the points table. An example was our game against Uttar Pradesh. There was no play for two days because of bad weather. Same thing happened during the game against Chhattisgarh. We lost out on points.

What about the facilities at venues?

In Kerala, we played at Xavier's college ground (in Thumba). The college dressing rooms were very small and close to each other. There was no privacy for both the teams. If we spoke or planned anything, the opposition team could hear us. Ranji Trophy games should be played at venues where there are basic facilities.

You had said on X that you were frustrated. What are your other concerns?

Umpiring for me is the main concern. The standard of umpiring is poor in domestic cricket. The BCCI should think about how they can improve umpiring. I have been witnessing this for a number of years. There are big mistakes but there are some childish ones too.

Bumrah's absence forces India back to the drawing board

VENKATA KRISHNA B
CHENNAI, FEBRUARY 20

AS TEAM India landed in Ranchi, a familiar face that has been tormenting England was missing. As previously reported by The Indian Express, the hosts will take the field in the fourth Test without star pacer Jasprit Bumrah, with the selectors and team management giving him a break to manage his workload. The BCCI in a release on Tuesday night stated that Bumrah had been released from the squad 'keeping in mind the duration of the series and the amount of cricket he has played in recent times'.

With Bumrah out of the Test, India's think-tank is in a huddle about his replacement in the XI.

During the previous selection committee meeting, the selectors had informed the team management about the need to rest Bumrah keeping the road ahead in mind. Although the pacer is understood to have been keen on playing all five Tests, The Indian Express understands that with the IPL, T20 World Cup and other marquee assignments coming up, the team management and selectors advised him to sit out the Ranchi Test as he would be needed in the final game in Dharamsala.

In the three Tests so far, more than the spinners, it is Bumrah who has had England in all sorts of trouble with his lethal reverse-swing. Though the workload management system hasn't raised any red flags as yet, given his history of back issues, it was inevitable that India would have to play a Test without him. And now that India are entering the territory, the big question is who comes in place of Bumrah.

Much of it would now depend on the conditions that India encounter in Ranchi. Having chosen to play on traditional slow pitches that tend to start flat and deteriorate as the Test progresses, for the first time in this series India are contemplating whether to go for a turner. If that is the case, India could bring in Washington Sundar or Axar Patel in place of Bumrah to strengthen the batting. Ranchi, like the other venues in the series,

Though Jasprit Bumrah was keen to play all Tests, the team management and the selectors advised him to sit out of Ranchi to manage workload. File has black soil pitches. And it is understood that so far, pitch preparation has gone the same way as it did in Hyderabad, Vizag and Rajkot. However, should India prefer a turner, the groundstaff only has to do selective wa-

Can you elaborate?

In one game, the umpire was referring no-ball decisions to the third umpire after each delivery. I asked, "Sir, why are you referring no ball calls to the umpire. He replied, 'how can I see the popping crease of the bowler? If I watch where the bowler's foot lands then, I will not be able to see what happens to the ball.'" At times umpires can't hear a batsman nicking the ball, but everyone at the ground has heard it.

Do you plan to make recommendations to the BCCI?

I will definitely do it. If a player has to go through dope tests, it should be extended to domestic umpires. Many times I have seen umpires walking out to the middle while still nursing a hangover. How can he function properly in such a situation? I asked, "Sir kya liye tha kal raat mein?" (Sir, what did you drink last night?). The reply was: "I prefer whisky on the rocks." BCCI should get the hearing and eyesight of every umpire checked before the start of each season.

There has been a trend of some players skipping red-ball domestic cricket

Yes, it's there. I feel players shouldn't be blamed. If a player is getting Rs 5 crores from the IPL, it goes to their head. Why would a player toil hard in red-ball cricket for a small amount of money when he can earn in millions by playing two months in the IPL. It (referring to Ishan Kishan) is the first time I have seen a player informing an Indian team during a series that he has mental fatigue and takes a break and then is reportedly seen partying. He knows that someone at the top will help in the future and everything will be fine.

Are you happy with the pitches being prepared for domestic cricket?

The neutral curator concept should be done away with. A neutral curator takes over the preparation of the pitch some 5-6 days before each game. They have to ensure that the home team does not get an advantage. But in one game, the ball began to turn from the first few overs. The game lasted just four sessions.

Any regrets looking back on your career?

I feel sad that I wasn't able to play Test cricket. One day I would like to ask Mahi bhai (MS Dhoni) why I was dropped from the playing XI in 2011 after scoring a century (versus West Indies in an ODI)? I had the potential to be a hero just like Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli. Today, when I see many people getting more opportunities, I feel sad. Overall it has been a great ride for me and cricket has given me everything. So no complaints.

IPL from Mar 22; to be played in India in poll year

DEVENDRA PANDEY
MUMBAI, FEBRUARY 20

THE 17TH edition of the Indian Premier League is set to begin from March 22 and will be played in its entirety in India amidst the general elections. IPL chairman Arun Dhimal said on Tuesday. "We are looking for a March 22 date to start the IPL this season," Dhimal told The Indian Express, furthermore adding that the schedule of the first 10 days will be announced initially, while the roster for the remaining games shall be announced once the dates for the general elections are made official.

"We don't want to be in a situation where we announce the full IPL schedule and then the security agency informs us that they won't be available to provide security for the specific venue games," the IPL chairman added. "It takes a lot of logistical challenges to change the venue at the last moment, lot of machinery work behind the scenes, and they need time to conduct each IPL game. So we thought let's wait and announce only the first few games scheduled. We will announce the complete schedule once we get a clear picture of which state will be holding elections on specific dates."

"We will announce the complete schedule once we get a clear picture of which state will be holding elections on specific dates."
ARUN DHIMAL,
IPL chairman

The dates for the Lok Sabha polls are expected to be announced in early March. When asked if there's any chance that the league might be staged elsewhere owing to the elections, Dhimal made it clear that "it won't happen overseas. That is why we are waiting for Lok Sabha election dates, so that we can plan the venues accordingly."

It's not the first time the league has been staged at the same time as the general elections. Back in 2009, the second season of the IPL was moved to South Africa while in 2014, the first 20 matches of the season were played in the UAE and the rest in India.

In 2019, while the league was staged at the same time as the Lok Sabha polls, all the games were staged in the country. With the T20 World Cup to begin starting June 1, it is expected that the IPL will conclude in the last week of May.

As has been the norm of the last few seasons, the opening fixture will be between the two finalists of the last season — Chennai Super Kings and Gujarat Titans.

Rahul to miss Ranchi Test

New Delhi: KL Rahul, who missed the third Test because of a sore knee, will not be available for the fourth match starting in Ranchi from Friday. Devdutt Padikkal, Rahul's Karnataka team-mate, retains his place in the squad as a replacement. "KL Rahul is ruled out of the fourth Test. His participation in the final Test match in Dharamsala is subject to fitness," the BCCI said in a release. Rahul had missed the 2nd Test match in Visakhapatnam due to a quadriceps injury. ENS tinger or stop it altogether. For Ranchi, India have Mukesh Kumar (who has rejoined the squad after being released ahead of the third Test) and uncapped Akash Deep to choose from as Mohammed Siraj's partner. But in the lone Test he played in the series at Vizag, on a flat deck, Mukesh struggled to pose any sort of threat to the Bazballers.

With a 2-1 lead in the bag, India are wary of not losing the momentum, particularly because at Dharamsala — the venue for the fifth Test — England would feel more at home because of the conditions. Akash Deep had a good outing against England Lions. But exposing a newcomer to Bazball could be risky, which is why playing an extra spinner is being considered. Even at Vizag, where Siraj was rested, India had initially planned to play Washington, but eventually went with Mukesh, who bowled 12 overs in the match.

Even if isn't a turner, India believe playing another spinner would strengthen the team as both Washington and Axar are bankable options with the bat. The reason India are sceptical about playing on a rank turner is their inexperienced batting unit. A clear picture is expected when head coach Rahul Dravid makes his first dash to the pitch on Wednesday afternoon.

BAZBALL & GENGENPRESSERS

Like Klopp did in football, McCullum's England play heavy metal cricket

SANDIP G
FEBRUARY 20

IN CRICKET, eleven different men could play in eleven different ways and win a game in eleven different manners, unbound by a common playing theme, style or structure.

Football, though played by eleven men and devouring massive real estate, contrarily to cricket, is bound by structures, styles, and philosophies. Thus, cricket has not had the equivalent of Catenaccio, Total Football, or Tiki Taka or Gegenpressing.

The closest a bunch of eleven cricketers have conformed to a uniform way of playing or embodying the same spirit as the others in the team, is Bazball, the radical code of Brendon McCullum's England Test team.

In full flow, it's thrilling to watch. Batsmen attack from the first ball; bowlers bound out off their blocks; fielders are often uniquely stationed, no condition fazes them; no opposition daunts them. The aggression is relentless, similar to Jurgen Klopp's Borussia Dortmund gegenpressers, who pressed and probed the adversaries to submission. It was heavy metal football, just as McCullum's England blast heavy metal cricket. Loud and beautiful, bold and audacious. The Klopp-ball press began with the forwards, just as Bazball begins with the openers, and flows down seamlessly. Each of those eleven men, though deputised with different roles and operating in different positions, is defined by the overriding duty to stick to their method and style.

Players are picked to cater to the system. Ben Duckett was surprisingly recalled; the inconsistent Zak Crawley was offered a new lease of life, and he is in many ways their pulse. Duckett is not your conventional opener, just like Roberto Firmino was not a conventional No 9. But that's how it worked.

Klopp picked full-backs that offered attacking vim rather than defensive sturdiness; McCullum moved away from England's traditional habit of preparing seaming tracks for home Tests, even if it meant self-neutering the threat of arguably the greatest swing-bowler of all time. In India, he unpacked a band of green spinners. If England had a pack of tearaways in the county, he would have picked them all to complement Mark Wood, who is relishing his time under Ben Stokes and Brendon McCullum.

McCullum-coached England's aggression is similar to Borussia Dortmund's gegenpressers when Klopp was manager of the club. File

To attack is the soul of Bazball, as it was originally for Klopp-ball. In a way, it is as much about emotion as it is about intensity of purpose. Klopp's Liverpool league and Champions League winners were ultimate mentality monsters; so are Stokes and Co.

Needless to say, they have been incredibly successful. England have won 13 of the 19 Tests (until Rajkot) in the Bazball era. The five defeats (one by a run, another by two wickets) don't vex them.

This is not a minor or a passing tweak, but rather a whole new system that contradicts some of the founding principles of the game. Like the art of batting time, like the concept of a draw. It is their anathema like it is for modern-day football managers. Or like leaving the first hour to the bowler, or starting off with a seven-two field.

For a time, the cricket world seemed not to know how to react. Bazballers baz-rolled all and sundry. Australia, with their sheer courage and single-mindedness of captain Pat Cummins, managed to retain the Ashes, but those that have watched the series would vouch for the tentative nature of the defence. England landed in India and have shaken their convictions of dishing out a turner. It's hard to imagine a series where India have looked wary, even if they have bounced back from the defeat in the series opener.

How the future of Bazball pans out would be interesting. Football history teaches that there are broadly four different possibilities.

■ A) It could fade away, like Catenaccio, Total Football, and Tiki Taka, though some of the elements are assimilated into a different brand of football. From Total Football, tiki-taka borrowed the high defensive line, the inter-changing of positions, and the feeling that the game could be controlled through possession. But its characteristics were far from total; pass, rather than position, was the pulse of Tiki Taka.

■ B) A counter-culture could arise when possession football was antedated by non-possession football. That's how Jose Mourinho's Inter Milan stopped Barcelona. The Portuguese manager would tell his men that the more possession they enjoyed, the more mistakes they would commit. "Whoever has the ball has fear, and whoever does not have it is thereby stronger," he would advise them. An ultra-defensive team would perhaps arise to shackle Bazballers.

■ C) A synthesis is arrived upon at some point, where teams pick some elements of Bazball, blend them with their styles, and adopt them for the next few years. History instructs that extreme methods rarely stand the test of time.

The fourth possibility is that Bazball itself could evolve, adding more layers and tones to its skin. Like pressing. Klopp's latest Liverpool reiteration does not press as vigorously as the first avatar. There is more patient build-up and broader passing patterns. A lot of factors determine the evolution, like loss of form, retirement, burnout, injuries, and most importantly, a chain of defeats, which could impact and dilute the concept.

But whatever the future of Bazball is, it deserves an important place in the game's history. That eleven men, for the first time, are bound and defined by a common thread of philosophy and style.

Mbappe to join Real Madrid in summer: Reports

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
FEBRUARY 20

Paris Saint Germain forward Kylian Mbappe has finally agreed to join the 14-time Champions League winners Real Madrid by the end of the ongoing season, according to a BBC report.

With rumors of the much anticipated signing swirling around over the past month, the Frenchman intends to leave the Ligue 1 club in June and has agreed on a five-year deal with the Spanish giants, which will see him earn 15m euros (£12.8m) per season, plus a 150m euro (£128m) signing-on bonus.

Mbappe has been linked with Real Madrid for multiple seasons during his PSG stint, which began in 2017-18 when he made the move to the French capital from AS Monaco. A deal that saw him become the most expensive teenager in football history. In the 291 games that have followed, Mbappe has scored 244 goals and 93 assists to his name for the Ligue 1 champions.

But at the end of the 2021/22 season, the links for a move to Madrid were the strongest and it was believed that the French winger was set to depart for the Los Blancos at the end of his initial contract with the Parisians but ended up signing a new two-year deal.

In Spain, the transfer – not yet made official – is already considered a done deal with the national sports daily displaying a full page cover of Mbappe with the text, 'Ya está firmado (It's already signed)'.

It is also being suggested that if Luka Modric, the veteran Croatian midfielder, leaves Madrid at the end of the season, Mbappe will be donning his number 10 jersey.

India's double act, now in a duel

Squad restrictions mean only one goalkeeper, either Sreejesh or Pathak, will play at the Paris Olympics

MIHIR VASAVDA
ROURKELO, FEBRUARY 20

PR SREEJESH has retirement plans. But he has no reason to walk into the sunset just yet.

Krishan Pathak is eyeing succession. The understudy, now an heir apparent, patiently waiting for his time.

Together, they form the most formidable goalkeeping pair India have had in more than a decade. Alternating quarters, pushing limits and outdoing each other. But when the time comes, in July during the Paris Olympics, one will have to make way for the other.

In every other tournament, countries field at least an 18-player squad that includes two goalkeepers. But the squad restrictions at an Olympics, where only 16 members can be entered, mean coaches are often forced to sacrifice a goalkeeper to accommodate an additional outfield player.

At the Tokyo Olympics, Sreejesh was the No. 1 goalkeeper by a country mile, and Pathak travelled as a reserve. The former made a last-minute save that ended India's decades-long medal drought. The latter was the only player not to get a medal because he wasn't officially in the team.

In the three years since, Pathak has caught up. Whether it's enough to challenge the ever-green Sreejesh, who yet again came up with an age-defying performance against Spain on Monday, is a question coach Craig Fulton will have to find an answer to.

Fulton has set a few selection parameters. "Current form, penalty corner defence, shoot-outs and managing his defence in terms of how he organises," he says. "That, from a leadership point of view is very important."

This puts Sreejesh, 35, and Pathak, 26, in a terrific duel, which can only be good news for the team.

Sreejesh had to unlearn and relearn the art of goalkeeping mid-career, which enabled him to not just survive the big churn in Indian hockey but also emerge as one of the finest the country has ever produced.

His big frame allows him to easily cover all corners of the goal and requires less power. In shoot-outs, he is among the best in the world and is an on-field coach, always ensuring the players play within the structure.

Dennis van de Pol, the Dutchman who frequently flies down to India to train the goalkeepers, had once said that Pathak's biggest asset is that opponents think he can be beaten easily because he is smaller. But what he doesn't have in height, he compensates with power and agility.

"Even balls that are going to the top corner, which I would feel would be tough for him, he made them look so easy," Van de Pol says. "This wasn't the case three-and-a-half years ago."

Guiding hand

Sreejesh has had an outsized role in where Pathak is today. The veteran of three Olympics provided his junior colleague – and other goalkeepers – with something he never got: proper guidance. "After 2012 (Olympics), I relearn my basics. That was the toughest time for me," Sreejesh says. "How you stand, where you keep your hands. In India, you keep your hand like this (palm open, chest high) or you just move all the time. You (were) never (taught to) stay calm. We never had former goalkeepers who learnt modern techniques and imparted them to us. They learnt 1+1 is 4 and taught us that. But no, 1+1 is 2."

The archaic coaching methods hit Sreejesh in the face especially when he learnt what was happening in Europe, where because of a proper league structure there used to be full-blown research into goalkeeping methods as well as the latest scoring techniques.

Sreejesh ensured the generation that followed him would not have to endure the same problems. During the 2016 Junior World Cup, which India won and when Pathak burst onto the scene, he took a break from training and joined the team as a goalkeeping coach – a career he is considering the day he decides to hang his boots. From that batch, Pathak has emerged as a worthy candidate to eventually succeed his mentor. "Before I came into the team, I watched Sree bhai play. I learnt a lot by just watching him. From there to joining the senior team, then training alongside him and now playing with him, it's been a big learning phase," Pathak says.

Pathak had to wait for his chance with the national team, getting sparse opportunities as Sreejesh became the reliable custodian of India's fortunes. But former coach Graham Reid, who guided India to the Olympic podium, began giving both goalkeepers an equal opportunity by playing them in alternate quarters.

"Thanks to Graham Reid for that. Goalkeeping cannot be improved by sitting on the sidelines. You need to step in, feel the pressure and experience it," Sreejesh, who mostly plays the second and fourth quarters, says. Who goes when depends largely on which goalkeeper will be needed in case of shoot-outs, with the one playing the fourth quarter staying on for the tie-breakers as well.

Training and playing together has ensured a 'healthy competition', Pathak says. Gone are the days of insecurity, Sreejesh laughs. "Whatever we do, the team should win. When he gets a chance, I feel he should do well so that the team does well. We have moved on from the old mentality."

8-year-old boy of Indian origin beats Polish Grandmaster

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
FEBRUARY 20

ASHWATH KAUSHIK (in pic), an eight-year-old Indian origin boy hailing from Singapore, stunned Polish chess grandmaster Jacek Stopa at the Burgdorfer Stadthaus Open on Sunday. With this feat, he became the youngest ever player to beat a grandmaster in the classical version of the game.

The previous record was held by Serbia's Leonid Ivanovic, who is also 8 years of age but is several months older than Kaushik, beat 60-year-old Bulgarian grandmaster Milko Popchev at the Belgrade Open almost a week ago. According to a Channel News Asia report, Kaushik, who represented Singapore, defeated Stopa, who at 37 is nearly five times older than him. "I felt proud of my game and how I played, especially since I was worse at one point but managed to come back from that," Kaushik, who is ranked world No. 37,338 on FIDE, said.

Kaushik ultimately finished the tournament in 12th place after losing against Harry Grieve and he is set to gain 84 rating points on the next list, as per Chess.com.

Kaushik was born in India but has been living in Singapore for the past 6 years. He first came into the limelight when he won triple gold in the Under-8 category of the Eastern Asian Youth Championship in 2022 when he was just 6.

In the same year, he also became the World Under-8 Rapid Champion while he was two years shy of the age limit.

According to Chess.com, the 8-year-old spends up to seven hours a day on chess and solves thousands of puzzles on his old chess program. His father Kaushik Sriram also revealed that his son has a photographic memory, saying, "He solves long complex puzzles visually. He finished GM Jacob Aagaard's entire Grandmaster series recently without using a board."

Singaporean grandmaster and CEO of the Singapore Chess Federation Kevin Goh lauded Ashwath's feat on 'X', saying, "Dad is super supportive, boy is dedicated, school allows flexibility and of course he has natural talent."

"Remains to be seen how far he can go as interests can change as the boy gets older. Still, we are hopeful." Goh also joked that as he is only eight years old, Ashwath still needs a booster cushion to reach the other side of the board."

Indian women rally from 0-2 down to beat Spain

ANIL DIAS
FEBRUARY 20

THE INDIAN women's team stood firm and launched a spirited comeback after going two matches down to beat Spain 3-2 in their final group-stage clash of the World Team Table Tennis Championships in Busan on Tuesday.

With the narrow win, India finished second in their group with three wins from four matches, and made it to the knockouts, but they have been handed a challenging draw that could thwart their quest to qualify for the Olympics as a team.

India have to reach the quarterfinal of this tournament to earn a direct qualification for the Paris Games. In the Round of 32, they face a strong Italy team who finished third in their group. They may go into that game as favourites, but the winner of the tie will meet a very strong Chinese Taipei side in the pre-quarterfinal.

Ayhika leads fightback

It was Sreeja Akula who played India's opening match against Spain's World No. 63 Maria Xiao and the national champion was unable to counter Xiao's aggressive play. Sreeja, who reached a career-high ranking of World No. 49 only earlier this month, did manage to win the second game courtesy of some powerful forehand winners, but Xiao responded with even more aggression to take the tie 3-1 (11-9, 9-11, 13-11, 11-4).

Spain then went 2-0 up with World No. 120 Sofia-Xuan Zhang stunning India's top-ranked player Manika Batra in five games. Manika, who's trying to be more aggressive with her forehand, did well against the quick 24-year-old but just wasn't able to finish off crucial points, losing 3-2 (13-11, 6-11, 8-11, 11-9, 11-7).

The third rubber was a do-or-die situation, but luckily for India, it was Ayhika Mukherjee, who beat China's World No. 1 Sun Yingsha in the first match of the tournament, up against the slightly inexperienced Elvira Rad. The Spaniard didn't make it easy, stretching Ayhika to five games before the Asian Games bronze medallist reached into her well of experience to close out the final game and drag India back into the tie.

It was then time for a Manika special. India's 'Golden Girl' seemed unperturbed by her earlier loss, and played arguably her best match of the tournament to thrash Xiao 3-0. She seemed to find her forehand smashes that were missing in the earlier match, and that will bode well for India in the knockouts.

After losing her first match against Spain, Manika Batra played a sensational second match to draw India level in the tie. File

Sreeja, who only last month won her first WTT title at the Feeder event in Corpus Christi, finished off the remarkable comeback for India, winning her match against Zhang 3-1. It did seem that Zhang was suffering from some sort of arm injury in the fifth game, but Sreeja and India didn't seem to mind.

Chinese Taipei on their minds

The Indian team will undoubtedly be focused on the match against Italy early on Wednesday, but they will also be gearing up to face Chinese Taipei, should they reach the pre-quarterfinals.

The Chinese Taipei side has Cheng I-Ching, World No. 10, who only last month won the women's singles title of the WTT Goa Star Contender, beating India's Sreeja Akula in the quarterfinal. They also have World No. 41 Szu-Yu Chen, who also recently defeated Sreeja in Doha last month.

India will however take heart from the fact that Manika has beaten Cheng in straight games last year and, of course, they are a superbly confident squad, especially after this win over Spain and their wins over the World No. 1 and World No. 2 in their opening encounter.

Long jump: Plan to eliminate foul jumps to be trialled this year

REUTERS
FEBRUARY 20

A PLAN to eliminate foul jumps from the long jump event is to be trialled this year, World Athletics CEO Jon Ridgeon said.

Ridgeon believes the discipline needs to get rid of the large number of foul jumps recorded to make it more appealing to the public.

"At the World Championships in Budapest last summer, a third of all the jumps were no-jumps, athletes stepping over the front of the take-off board," Ridgeon said on the Anything But Footy podcast.

"That doesn't work, that's a waste of time. So we're testing, for example, a take-off zone rather than a take-off board, so we measure from where the athlete takes off to where they land in the pit. That means every single jump counts, it adds to the jeopardy of the competition, the drama of the competition."

World Athletics also wants to ensure the new rules would not cause delays. "We're working out ways of how we can get instant results so you don't have to wait 20 or 30 seconds before the result pops up," Ridgeon said.

The aim is to test out the idea with top athletes this year, and Ridgeon said any global introduction of the new rules may not happen until 2026, if at all.

The proposed rule change, however, already has high-profile critics.

Carl Lewis won long jump gold at four consecutive Olympic Games and his leap of 8.87 metres in 1991 is third on the world all-time list. "You're supposed to wait until April 1st for April Fools jokes," the American on social media platform X. "I guess it supports what I've been saying, that the long is the most difficult event in track and field. That would just eliminate the most difficult skill from the event."

"Just make the basket larger for free throws because so many people miss them."

It (rule change) would just eliminate the most difficult skill from the event. Just make the basket larger for free throws because so many people miss them.."
